PREFACE

For a number of years the author has been interested in developing materials which help to provide a general background to the Moak family. A number of other members of the family have simultaneously been interested; some have contributed freely of the materials that they have developed over the years.

This present edition of this work is not considered as a complete edition even with regard to the matters related herein. However, the author has decided to publish this first edition as a means of sharing the information already gathered and of providing a basis for criticism, correction and expansion of the materials. Each reader is invited to communicate with the author for the purpose of providing corrections and supplementary materials.

The information contained in Part I is based upon historical research. Subject to the limitations stated at various points, it is believed that all statements in this section are correct. The information contained in Part II is of widely differing degrees of accuracy. Some of it is from well documented sources, e.g., the U.S. Census and family Bibles and court records; some is based upon correspondence with living persons who may or may not have reported accurately; finally, there are oral statements which range from reliable to sheer imagination.

It is the expectation of the author to issue a revised edition of this work at intervals of about five years. In these circumstances, all are invited to continue their contributions of materials.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

One should really not undertake to make acknowledgments for assistance when it has been as broad as the assistance furnished in the course of this work. Inevitably when literally hundreds of persons have given generously of their time and accumulated knowledge to bring this work to its present stage, the enumeration of some may be construed as a lack of appreciation for the assistance of those not singled out.

Even so, some persons have made such outstanding contributions over a long period of years that the author must mention these. To each of them my sincere appreciation.

Miss Mary L. Rollins of New Orleans whose early interest in the family was one of the deciding influences in getting me interested.

Mrs. J. O. Day of Brookhaven who has written me dozens of letters through the years and shared much information which she has collected. Also for reading and criticism of portions of the draft of the report.

Dr. Franklin Edwin Moak, now of the University of Mississippi, who has done more scholarly research in the field than any single person.

Miss Bonnie Cole of Bogue Chitto who has kindly read much of the manuscript, assisted in furnishing additional information on living members of the family.

Mr. Leonardo Andrea for assistance in understanding some of the basic records in South Carolina.

Mrs. Robert L. Meriwether for permission to use the map of early Saxe Gotha Township which her late husband so painstakingly prepared.

Mrs. Mary Givens Bryan, Director of the Department of Archives and History, State of Georgia, for searching passports granted by the Governor and council of Georgia.

Miss Jane Melton of the Department of Archives and History of the State of Mississippi for many questions answered.

This is only a fragmentary list. I hope others will understand my failure to list them does not indicate any lack of appreciation for assistance so generously rendered.

Finally, no acknowledgment is sufficient to express to my wife her understanding during the hours I have worked on this when I might well have been minding children or doing household chores.

CHAPTER I

THE NAME IS MOAK

This work is concerned with the Moak family in America. It has not attempted to trace the European antecedents. Clearly, however, it would appear that the family is German and that it arose largely from the lower Rhine. The New York branch is reported to have come from Switzerland.

The name itself appears to have no specific meaning. Many variations of the name occurred in the British colonies and during early independence period. Among the names which have been noted are those listed below.

One wonders why so many variations. A part of the process was that of anglicization of the basic German name. Another part of the process was in phonetic spelling, where one man pronounced his name and another tried to spell it on the basis of how it sounded. Still another lay in the transcription errors of copy work from one document to another.

So far as your author knows, the only variations used for the southern family after 1790 were: (1) Moak, (2) Moke, and (3) Moake. The Moke has now disappeared. Except for one group in Houston, Texas, and a few in California, the Moake has also disappeared. Efforts to determine the relationship of these Moake families to the Moak group have not been successful. The standard spelling used throughout this work is Moak, unless a different spelling is used to emphasize the spelling found in the original record.

Among the variations in use prior to 1800, the following have been noted:

1. Maack
2. Maak
3. Make
4. Moack
5. Moag
6. Moak
7. Moake
8. Moates
9. Moats
10. Moatz
11. Moch
12. Mock
13. Mocks
14. Mog
15. Moke
16. Mokes
17. Mooch
18. Moogh
19. Mook
20. Mooke
21. More

Not all of these spellings necessarily pertain to Moak; however, enough interrelationships will be noted from the sources cited below to indicate that they are probably spellings of the same basic name.

CHAPTER 2

THE MOAK FAMILIES IN AMERICA

Upon the basis of the information now available, it appears that there were three distinct Moak families in America during the colonial period: (1) New York, (2) Pennsylvania-Maryland-Virginia, and (3) South Carolina (with perhaps some Georgia and North Carolina relations).

While there may have been some connection between these three branches, this author has not been able to discover any relationship within America. Careful research of European sources would determine whether a close relationship exists there. This, however, will have to await such research by other students in the family.

THE NEW YORK FAMILY

The greatest amount of collected data, both published and unpublished, heretofore collected, relates to the New York family. A number of writers have touched upon the New York family, but the most extensive work has been done by Elizabeth Janet MacCormick, a descendant of the original Moak settler in New York.[1] According to Miss MacCormick and to various entries in American Ancestry,[2] Hannes Jachem Moogh migrated to New York prior to 1750. She reports that he was born in Switzerland in 1720 and died in Albany County, New York, in 1795. The spelling of the name was apparently changed to Moke as the entry in the U.S. Census of 1790 for New York appears as Jacob Moke.[3] Miss MacCormick and other writers have regularly spelled the name as Moak in both the 19th and 20th centuries. The genealogical records available for this family indicate that its members stayed in the northern portion of the United States, at least until after 1900. Some of the members migrated westward as their names appear in various records in Ohio and Iowa and more recently in California.

Given the fact that there is no known relationship of the New York family with the South Carolina family, this volume makes no further reference to the New York family.

THE PENNSYLVANIA-MARYLAND-VIRGINIA FAMILY OR FAMILIES

The second group of persons with the Moak name is that which arrived through Philadelphia between 1732 and 1743. These persons appear to be the forebearers of several families found in various records between 1732 and 1800 in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia. Emphasis here is placed on the fact that this is an appearance of relationship and is not a demonstrated one.

There are two principal secondary sources of information concerning migration to Pennsylvania during the fifty years prior to the American Revolution. These are:

1. Rupp, I. Daniel; A Collection of Upwards of Thirty Thousand Names of Germans, Swiss, Dutch, French, and other Immigrants in Pennsylvania from 1727-1776.

2. Straussburger, Ralph Beaver; German Immigrants to Pennsylvania.

From these we learn that the following were among the migrations to Pennsylvania which occurred during this period:

a. Johannes Moak on October 11, 1732, on the Ship Pleasant, J. Morris, Master. The ship was from Rotterdam in Holland; however, it stopped at Deal in Southern England for clearance before setting sail across the Atlantic.

b. Hans Peter H. Mock, aged 25, arrived on the Ship Samuel, arriving from Rotterdam, August 17, 1733.

c. Nicholas and Peter Moak (Mook, Mock) arrived September 9, 1738, from Rotterdam on the Ship Glasgow.

d. Johannes Moak (Moke, Maak) arrived on Ship St. Andrew, James Morris, Master. From Rotterdam with brief stop in Cowes in Southern England.

e. Johann Conradt Mock (Maack) arrived September 28, 1754, on Ship Neptune, Captain Waire, Master. From Rotterdam.

f. Henrich Moag, came on September 2, 1743, on the Ship Loyal Judith, James Cowie, Master. From Rotterdam, with brief stop at Cowes.

g. Samuel Mooke (Moch) arrived September 3, 1738, from Rotterdam on Ship Winter Galley, Capt. Edward Paynter, Master.

h. Hans Jorg Mock, arrived from Rotterdam, with brief stop at Plymouth, England, on October 23, 1752, on Ship Rawley.

A number of other entries appear in various records. Among these are entries which place Frederick Moake as a cordwinder in Philadelphia in 1769 and 1774 but paying no taxes as he had no land, livestock, or servants; Jacob Moake as a laborer in Philadelphia paying taxes in 1769 and 1774;[4] (spelled Moke in 1774 entry); Frederick Moak as a private in Capt. Isaac Cooper's Company of the 7th and 8th classes, Philadelphia militia in the service of the United States, commanded by William Bradford, Esq., Colonel, on September 26, 1778.[5]

Nich's (Nicholas) Moak is listed as a private on the payroll of Captain Michael Hoalman's Company of Chester County, Pa., militia in September 1781, while Henry Moke of Lancaster County, Pa., is listed as having been naturalized on March 30, 1861, at the Supreme Court "between 9 & 12 on April 10 or 11, 1861."[6]

In 1780, Jacob Moak served as a member of Chester County Militia.[7]

Also serving in the American Revolution from Pennsylvania were Jacob Moak and George Moak of Northumberland County, and John Moak of the 3rd Regiment.[8]

The 1790 U.S. Census for Pennsylvania while including no Moak spellings included the following entries:

John Mock -- Chester County
Jacob Moates -- Northumberland County[9]
George Moatz -- Northumberland County[10]
Duval Moats -- Fayette County, Georges Township[11]
Trevals Moates -- Fayette County, German Township[12]

Both Northumberland and Fayette counties are in western Pennsylvania. There are no entries for eastern Pennsylvania which record a Moak or closely similar name. This suggests that shortly after the American Revolution the families in Chester and Lancaster counties (immediately west of Philadelphia) must have migrated either to western Pennsylvania or to other states.

The Moak spelling was not, however, lost as two members of the family apparently served in the Pennsylvania armed forces during the War of 1812. These were Samuel Moak (also entered as Moah) who was a sergeant in Captain John Fisher's Company of Pennsylvania troops for the period August 25 to October 13, 1812,[13] and John Moak (who was listed without rank designation and probably a private) on the payroll of the infantry company of Daniel McKown for service from May 5 to November 8, 1813.[14] Just what happened to this group is not known. Probably the spelling became standardized as Mock and Moates and no longer identified as a part of the Moak family.

THE MARYLAND-VIRGINIA ENTRIES

With regard to the Moak family in Maryland and Virginia prior to 1800, we find that in 1782, Henry Moke was a resident of Hampshire County, Virginia, with a family consisting of three white persons.[15] In Maryland, the 1790 U.S. Census lists a Henry Moak as resident in Baltimore County. The family consisted of Henry Moak, one other male over age 16, and one female.[16] What, if any relationship existed between these two Henry Moak families, or whether they are the same, is not known. The only other reference which indicates the presence of the name in Maryland at this time is the fact that a Moak Tilghman is listed as one of the signers of the Maryland Articles of Association dated October 20, 1774. This document is preserved in the national archives in Washington. The presence of this Christian name of Mr. Tilghman would suggest that perhaps his mother was a Moak.

No other entries prior to 1800 have been found in the casual search of the references relating to Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware and Virginia. Doubtless a more thorough search would reveal much greater information. This has not been made inasmuch as it is reasonably clear that the South Carolina family is all an outgrowth of the direct immigrant to be discussed in the succeeding chapter. It has been suggested by some persons that some portions of the Moak family migrated from Pennsylvania down the Shenandoah Valley and settled in either South Carolina or Georgia. While recognizing that there was a large general migration along this route, your author is obliged to reject this suggestion. He has been unable to find any evidence which would connect up the South Carolina-Georgia families with those which have been discussed.

CHAPTER 3

THE SETTLEMENT OF THE MOAK AND DOMINEY FAMILIES IN SOUTH CAROLINA

1740-1755

Andrew Moak (1) came directly from Europe to Charleston, S.C., about 1740--not earlier than 1738 nor later than 1741.[1]

The Journal of the Minutes of Council of the Province of South Carolina for December 6 and 7, 1745, record the discharge of Andrew Moak from his indenture to Benjamin Godin, Esq. These minutes reveal that his indenture to Godin has just been completed and that Andrew Moak was applying for a grant of land which is referred to below. The minutes state that the indenture had been served for "defraying his freight" on a voyage with Captain Stedman.

The specific entries are set forth in the reproduction of these portions of the minutes of Council contained in Figures 1 and 2 on the following pages.

According to Dr. Moak, this Andrew Moak probably came to Charleston on either the ship St. Andrew or the ship Charming Nancy, both English ships. These ships were engaged in bringing German and Swiss immigrants to America during this period. Captain John Steadman was the master of the St. Andrew[2] on one voyage in 1738 and in the same year Captain Charles Stedman brought over the Charming Nancy. In 1741, Captain Charles Stedman made a voyage to America in the St. Andrew.

The conjecture as to the date of arrival arises from these known voyages coupled with the fact that usually the indented servant was required to put in a period of service ranging from three to seven years for his passage and that of his family. Thus, with the indented period being completed in 1745, Andrew Moak probably came over not earlier than 1738 and not later than 1742. No passenger lists or other records have been located which give a more definitive date of arrival for Andrew Moak.[3]

[1] We are indebted to Dr. Franklin E. Moak for his painstaking research which has located the earliest documentary record concerning the Moak family in South Carolina. Except for this scholarly approach, our record would have commenced with the land grant to Andrew Moak (1) in 1745.

[2] It is to be noted that Johannes Moak who was discharged in Philadelphia also came over on the St. Andrew on October 7, 1743, with Robert Brown as Captain.

[3] Of some possible interest is the record of the immigration of Johannes Mokli who is reported to have arrived in South Carolina on Sept. 24, 1738. He was born in Switzerland on April 4, 1717, and was unmarried at the time of his arrival. Your author does not believe that this person is in any way connected with Andrew Moak (1); . however, he reports this fact for what it is worth. See: Faust, Albert Bernhards; List of Swiss Emigrants in the 18th Century to American Colonies, I, p. 64.

The Benjamin Godin to whom reference is made lived, at the time of the release of Andrew Moak from his service, at a plantation known as Fontainbleu at Goose Creek. Godin had acquired this property on August 18, 1707, while a merchant at Charleston. Goose Creek was approximately 10 miles from Charleston.[4] Godin also had a number of other plantations. Upon which of this Andrew Moak lived during his indented period is not known.

Before proceeding to the settlement of Andrew Moak in Saxe Gotha, let us pause to get a view of the conditions of passage from Europe at that time. One of the most vivid of these is recorded by Gottlieb Mittelberger concerning his trip from Germany to Philadelphia about 1750. While this does not relate in any way to South Carolina voyages, it does set forth the conditions which were doubtless generally typical of all trans-Atlantic voyages of this period.

MITTELBERGER'S NARRATIVE[5]

> This journey from the Palatinate to Pennsylvania...lasts from the beginning of May until the end of October, fully half a year, amid such hardships as no one is able to describe adequately. The cause is because the Rhine boats from Heilbronn to Holland have to pass by 36 custom houses, at all of which the ships are examined, which is done when it suits the convenience of the customhouse officials. In the meantime, the ships with the people are detained long, so that the passengers have to spend much money. The trip down the Rhine alone lasts four, five and even six weeks.
> When the ships and the people reach Holland, they are detained there likewise five or six weeks. Because things are very dear there, the poor people have to spend nearly all they have during that time...Both in Rotterdam and Amsterdam the people are packed densely, like herrings, so to say, in the large sea vessels. One persons receives a place scarcely two feet wide and six feet long in the beadstead, while many a ship carried four to six hundred souls; not to mention the innumerable implements, tools, provisions, water barrels and other things which likewise occupy much space.
> On account of contrary winds it sometimes takes the ships two, three and four weeks to make the trip from Holland to Cowes (on the Isle of Wight, on the South coast of England). But when the wind is good they get there in eight days or sooner. Every thing is examined at the custom house and the duties paid, and ships are sometimes detained eight, ten and fourteen days before their cargoes are completed. During this delay every one is compelled to spend his last money and to consume the little stock of provisions which had been reserved for the ocean voyage; so that most passengers, finding themselves on the ocean where they are in still greater need of the, suffer greatly from hunger and want.

WHEN THE SHIPS HAVE FOR THE LAST TIME WEIGHED THEIR ANCHORS AT COWES, THE REAL MISERY BEGINS, FOR FROM THERE THE SHIPS, UNLESS THEY HAVE GOOD WINDS MUST OFTEN SAIL EIGHT, NINE, TEN OR TWELVE WEEKS BEFORE THEY REACH PHILADELPHIA. BUT WITH THE BEST WIND THE VOYAGE LASTS SEVEN WEEKS.

DURING THE VOYAGE THERE IS ON BOARD THESE SHIPS TERRIBLE MISERY, STENCH, FUMES, HORROR, VOMITING, MANY KINDS OF SICKNESSES, FEVER, DYSENTERY, HEADACHE, HEAT, CONSTIPATION, BOILS, SCURVY, CANCER MOUTH-ROT AND THE LIKE, ALL OF WHICH COME FROM OLD AND SHARPLY SALTED FOOD AND MEAT, ALSO FROM VERY BAD AND FOUL WATER SO THAT MANY DIE MISERABLY.

ADD TO THIS, WANT OF PROVISIONS, HUNGER, THIRST, COLD, HEAT, DAMPNESS, ANXIETY, WANT, AFFLICTIONS AND LAMENTATIONS, TOGETHER WITH OTHER TROUBLES SUCH AS LICE WHICH ABOUND SO PLENTIFULLY, ESPECIALLY ON SICK PEOPLE, THAT THEY CAN BE SCRAPED OFF THE BODY. THE MISERY REACHES THE CLIMAX WHEN A GALE RAGES FOR TWO OR THREE DAYS AND NIGHTS, SO THAT EVERYONE BELIEVES THAT THE SHIP WILL GO TO THE BOTTOM WITH ALL THE HUMAN BEINGS ON BOARD....

AMONG THE HEALTHY, IMPATIENCE SOMETIMES GROWS SO GREAT AND CRUEL THAT ONE CURSES THE OTHER OR HIMSELF, AND THE DAY OF HIS BIRTH, AND SOMETIMES COME NEAR KILLING EACH OTHER. MISERY AND MALICE JOIN EACH OTHER, SO THAT THEY CHEAT AND ROB ONE ANOTHER. ONE ALWAYS REPROACHES THE OTHER FOR PERSUADING HIM TO UNDERTAKE THE JOURNEY. FREQUENTLY CHILDREN CRY OUT AGAINST THEIR PARENTS, HUSBANDS AGAINST THEIR WIVES AND WIVES AGAINST THEIR HUSBANDS, BROTHERS AND SISTERS, FRIENDS AND ACQUAINTANCES AGAINST EACH OTHER. BUT MOST AGAINST THE SOUL-TRAFFICKERS.--(THE NEWLANDERS).

MANY SIGN AND CRY: 'OH, THAT I WERE AT HOME AGAIN, AND IF I HAD TO LIE IN MY PIG STY!' OR THEY SAY: 'O GOD, IF I ONLY HAD A PIECE OF GOOD BREAD, OR A GOOD FRESH DROP OF WATER.' MANY PEOPLE WHIMPER, AND SIGH AND CRY PITEOUSLY FOR THEIR HOMES; MOST OF THEM GET HOMESICK. MANY HUNDRED PEOPLE NECESSARILY DIE AND PERISH IN SUCH MISERY, AND MUST BE CAST INTO THE SEA, WHICH DRIVES THEIR RELATIVES, OR THOSE WHO PERSUADED THEM TO UNDERTAKE THE JOURNEY, TO SUCH DESPAIR THAT IT IS ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO PACIFY AND CONSOLE THEM. IN A WORD, THE SIGHING AND CRYING AND LAMENTING ON BOARD THE SHIP CONTINUES NIGHT AND DAY, SO AS TO CAUSE THE HEARTS EVEN OF THE MOST HARDENED TO BLEED WHEN THEY HEAR IT....

CHILDREN FROM ONE TO SEVEN YEARS RARELY SURVIVE THE VOYAGE; AND MANY A TIME PARENTS ARE COMPELLED TO SEE THEIR CHILDREN MISERABLY SUFFER AND DIE FROM HUNGER, THIRST AND SICKNESS, AND THEN SEE THEM CAST INTO THE WATER. I WITNESSED SUCH MISERY IN NO LESS THAN THIRTY-TWO CHILDREN IN OUR SHIP, ALL OF WHOM WERE THROWN INTO THE SEA....

OFTEN A FATHER IS SEPARATED BY DEATH FROM HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN, OR MOTHERS FROM THEIR LITTLE CHILDREN, OR EVEN BOTH PARENTS FROM THEIR CHILDREN; AND SOMETIMES ENTIRE FAMILIES DIE IN QUICK SUCCESSION; SO THAT OFTEN MANY DEAD PERSONS LIE IN THE BERTHS BESIDES THE LIVING ONES, ESPECIALLY WHEN CONTAGIOUS DISEASES HAVE BROKEN OUT ON THE SHIP....THAT MOST OF THE PEOPLE GET SICK IS NOT SURPRISING, BECAUSE, IN ADDITION TO ALL OTHER TRIALS AND HARDSHIPS, WARM FOOD IS SERVED ONLY THREE TIMES A WEEK, THE RATIONS BEING VERY POOR AND VERY SMALL. THESE MEALS CAN HARDLY BE EATEN ON ACCOUNT OF BEING SO UNCLEAN. THE WATER WHICH IS SERVED OUT ON THE SHIPS IS OFTEN VERY BLACK, THICK AND FULL OF WORMS, SO THAT ONE CANNOT DRINK IT WITHOUT LOATHING, EVEN WITH THE GREATEST THIRST. O SURELY, ONE WOULD OFTEN GIVE MUCH MONEY AT SEA FOR A PIECE OF GOOD BREAD, OR A DRINK OF GOOD WATER, IF IT COULD ONLY BE HAD. I MYSELF EXPERIENCED THAT SUFFICIENTLY, I AM SORRY TO SAY....

> AT LENGTH, WHEN AFTER A LONG AND TEDIOUS VOYAGE, THE SHIPS COME IN SIGHT OF LAND, SO THAT THE PROMONTORIES CAN BE SEEN, WHICH THE PEOPLE WERE SO EAGER AND ANXIOUS TO SEE, ALL CREEP FROM BELOW TO THE DECK TO SEE THE LAND FROM AFAR, AND THEY WEEP FOR JOY, AND PRAY AND SING, THANKING AND PRAISING GOD. THE SIGHT OF THE LAND MAKES THE PEOPLE ON BOARD THE SHIP, ESPECIALLY THE SICK AND THE HALF DEAD, ALIVE AGAIN, SO THAT THEIR HEARTS LEAP WITHIN THEM; THEY SHOUT AND REJOICE, AND ARE CONTENT TO BEAR THEIR MISERY IN PATIENCE, IN THE HOPE THAT THEY MAY SOON REACH THE LAND IN SAFETY. BUT ALAS!
> WHEN THE SHIPS HAVE LANDED AT PHILADELPHIA AFTER THEIR LONG VOYAGE NO ONE IS PERMITTED TO LEAVE THEM EXCEPT THOSE WHO PAY FOR THEIR PASSAGE OR CAN GIVE GOOD SECURITY; THE OTHERS WHO CANNOT PAY MUST REMAIN ON BOARD THE SHIPS TILL THEY ARE PURCHASED, AND ARE RELEASED FROM THE SHIPS BY THEIR PURCHASERS. THE SICK ALWAYS FARE THE WORST, FOR THE HEALTHY ARE NATURALLY PREFERRED AND PURCHASED FIRST; AND SO THE SICK AND WRETCHED MUST OFTEN REMAIN ON BOARD IN FROM OF THE CITY FOR TWO OR THREE WEEKS, AND FREQUENTLY DIE, WHEREAS MANY A ONE IF HE COULD PAY HIS DEBT AND WAS PERMITTED TO LEAVE THE SHIP IMMEDIATELY, MIGHT RECOVER.
> BEFORE I DESCRIBE HOW THIS TRAFFIC IN HUMAN FLESH IS CONDUCTED, I MUST MENTION HOW MUCH THE JOURNEY TO PENNSYLVANIA COSTS. A PERSON OVER TEN YEARS PAYS FOR THE PASSAGE FROM ROTTERDAM TO PHILADELPHIA, £ 10. CHILDREN FROM FIVE TO TEN YEARS PAY HALF PRICE, £ 5. ALL CHILDREN UNDER FIVE YEARS ARE FREE. FOR THESE PRICES THE PASSENGERS ARE CONVEYED TO PHILADELPHIA, AND AS LONG AS THEY ARE AT SEA PROVIDED WITH FOOD, THOUGH WITH VERY POOR FOOD, AS HAS BEEN SHOWN.
> BUT THIS IS ONLY THE SEA PASSAGE; THE OTHER COSTS ON LAND, FROM HOME TO ROTTERDAM, INCLUDING THE PASSAGE ON THE RHINE, ARE AT LEAST £35, NO MATTER HOW ECONOMICALLY ONE MAY LIVE. NO ACCOUNT IS HERE MADE OF EXTRAORDINARY CONTINGENCIES. I MAY SAFELY ASSERT THAT WITH THE GREATEST ECONOMY, MANY PASSENGERS HAVE SPENT £176 FROM HOME TO PHILADELPHIA.
> THE SALE OF HUMAN BEINGS IN THE MARKET ON BOARD THE SHIP IS CARRIED ON THUS: EVERY DAY ENGLISHMEN, DUTCHMEN, AND HIGH GERMAN PEOPLE COME FROM THE CITY OF PHILADELPHIA AND OTHER PLACES, SOME FROM A GREAT DISTANCE, SAY SIXTY, NINETY, AND ONE HUNDRED AND TWENTY MILES AWAY, AND GO ON BOARD THE NEWLY ARRIVED SHIP THAT HAS BROUGHT AND OFFERS FOR SALE PASSENGERS FROM EUROPE, AND SELECT AMONG THE HEALTHY PERSONS SUCH AS THEY DEEM SUITABLE FOR THEIR BUSINESS, AND BARGAIN WITH THEM HOW LONG THEY WILL SERVE FOR THEIR PASSAGE MONEY, FOR WHICH MOST OF THEM ARE STILL IN DEBT. WHEN THEY HAVE COME TO AN AGREEMENT, IT HAPPENS THAT ADULT PERSONS BIND THEMSELVES IN WRITING TO SERVE THREE, FOUR, FIVE OR SIX YEARS FOR THE AMOUNT DUE BY THEM, ACCORDING TO THEIR AGE AND STRENGTH. BUT VERY YOUNG PEOPLE, FROM TEN TO FIFTEEN, MUST SERVE UNTIL THEY ARE TWENTY-ONE YEARS OLD.

Perhaps the voyage of Andrew Moak was a little better than the foregoing. We find this observation concerning the voyages on the ship St. Andrew:

> During the years 1744--50 Saxe Gotha received a large influx of German settlers. The St. Andrew, Capt. Brown, commander, was a good ship on board of which passengers for the Carolinas were treated well. Saxe-Gotha District embraced the whole of what is now Lexington County, 100 miles > from Charleston, on the road which passed through Orangeburg District and was settled by the German people. They were not from Saxe-Gotha, but from the Rhine County, Baden, Wurtemburg, Switzerland.[6]

The conditions related toward the end of the Mittelberger account regarding the practices of payment for passage are helpful in understanding the practice of indented servants. Perhaps it is appropriate here to include another lengthy quotation, this time from an account concerning the indented servants in South Carolina who were referred to as the "Redemptioners."

SETTLEMENT OF REDEMPTIONERS[7]

> SOME OF OUR BEST AND MOST USEFUL SETTLERS IN THE SOUTH WERE PERSONS, WHO, TOO POOR TO PAY THEIR PASSAGE-MONEY ACROSS THE OCEAN, WERE SOLD BY THE CAPTAINS OF THE VESSELS, THAT BROUGHT THEM TO AMERICA, TO ANY ONE OF THE SETTLERS WHO FELT INCLINED TO SECURE THEIR LABOR. THE PRICE FOR WHICH THEY WERE SOLD IN CAROLINA WAS USUALLY FROM FIVE TO SIX POUNDS, STERLING MONEY, AND BOTH MEN AND WOMEN WERE THUS ALIKE SOLD TO SERVICE; AND THEN, BY HARD LABOR, WHICH EXTENDED OVER A PERIOD OF FROM THREE TO FIVE YEARS, THEY EVENTUALLY REDEEMED THEMSELVES FROM THIS SPECIES OF SERVITUDE.
> THE ADVANTAGES OF SUCH AN ARRANGEMENT TO THEM TO THEIR ADOPTED COLONY WERE, UPON THE WHOLE, IMPORTANT AND SALUTARY.
> 1. OUR INFANT COLONIES STOOD IN NEED OF A USEFUL POPULATION WHICH WOULD PROVE A DEFENCE TO THE COUNTRY IN CASE OF THE EXCEPTION OF THE CONTINUED THREATENINGS OF A SPANISH INVASION, AND THE SUDDEN ATTACK OF HOSTILE INDIANS.
> 2. BESIDES, LABOR WAS GREATLY NEEDED FOR THE CULTIVATION OF THE VIRGIN SOIL, AND THESE POOR GERMANS--MANY OF THEM EXCELLENT FARMERS, SOME OF THEM USEFUL ARTISANS, AND ALL OF THEM HARD-WORKING PEOPLE--FURNISHED THIS LABOR, AND AT VERY CHEAP RATES.
> 3. THE COUNTRY ALSO NEEDED PERMANENT SETTLERS WHO WOULD BECOME HABITUATED TO THE SOIL AND CLIMATE, WHO WOULD LEARN TO LOVE THEIR ADOPTED COUNTRY, BY BEING COMPELLED TO REMAIN UNTIL THEY HAD FULLY TESTED ALL THE ADVANTAGES OF THE SAME; THESE REDEMPTIONERS ABUNDANTLY SUPPLIED IN THEIR OWN PERSONS.
> 4. NOR WERE THE ADVANTAGES TO them OF SLIGHT IMPORTANCE. THEY HAD NOTHING TO RISK IN THE SHAPE OF PROPERTY, AS THEY POSSESSED NOTHING OF THIS WORLD'S GOODS, AND THUS THEY NEVER BECAME A PREY TO THOSE LANDSHARKS WHICH OFTEN DESPOIL THE LESS SAGACIOUS IMMIGRANTS OF MUCH OF THE POSSESSIONS WHICH THEY BROUGHT WITH THEM TO AMERICA.
> 5. BESIDES, THEY WERE THE POORER CLASS OF PEOPLE AT HOME IN EUROPE, AND WOULD ALWAYS HAVE REMAINED IN THIS CONDITION, HAD SUCH AN ARRANGEMENT NOT EXISTED; BUT NOW THEY ENJOYED THE FLATTERING PROSPECT OF RECEIVING COMPETENCY AND WEALTH AT SOME FUTURE DAY.

SETTLEMENT OF REDEMPTIONERS (CONTINUED)

6. THEN, AGAIN, THEIR SERVITUDE BECAME THEIR APPRENTICESHIP IN AMERICA; IN THE MEANTIME THEY LEARNED THE ENGLISH LANGUAGE, THEY BECAME ACQUAINTED WITH THE LAWS AND CUSTOMS OF THE NEW COUNTRY, THEY DISCOVERED BY SILENT OBSERVATION WHAT WOULD IN FUTURE BE TO THEIR ADVANTAGE, AND THUS IN EVERY WAY DID THEY BECOME QUALIFIED BY SAGACITY, INDUSTRY, AND ECONOMY, FOR THEIR NEW AND INDEPENDENT SPHERE OF LIFE.

YET IT MUST BE CONFESSED THAT THEY HAD TO ENDURE MANY HARDSHIPS; OFTEN WERE THEY RIGOROUSLY TREATED BY THEIR SHIP CAPTAINS; ILL AND INSUFFICIENTLY FED ON THEIR VOYAGE ACROSS THE OCEAN, AND ON SHORE BEFORE THEY WERE PURCHASED FOR THEIR SERVICES; EXPOSED PUBLICLY FOR SALE AS THE AFRICAN SLAVE; OFTEN TREATED HARSHLY BY THEIR MASTERS WHO PURCHASED THEM, AND COMPELLED TO LABOR IN THE BROILING SUN OF A SOUTHERN CLIMATE, AND MANY, BY DISEASE AND DEATH, FREQUENTLY CLOSED THEIR SHORT EARTHLY CAREER.

NATIONAL ORIGIN NOT FIRMLY ESTABLISHED

We have no record which enables us to identify the nationality of Andrew Moak. It is the belief of this author that he was German. He could have been a German Switzer. The only indications we have are secondary. Meriwether's references to Saxe Gotha settlement would support either interpretation.[8] Voight's summary of his findings again would support either conclusion, but with some emphasis on the German, rather than the Swiss source.[9]

As a result of his petition, the Council on December 7, 1745, ordered the Deputy Secretary to prepare a warrant to the Secretary General to grant a bounty of 250

[9] Charles P. Voigt has observed:

> In the influx of Germans and the Switzers into S.C. there were two clearly defined streams. In the decade 1734-1744, which marks the height of the 18th Century emigration from Switzerland, it was chiefly Switzers who came. In 1732 there were two parties of 60 and 49, respectively (S.C. Gazette, Nov. 4, 1732, Dec. 16, 1732); in 1734-35, two parties of 110 and 30 (Ibid. April 26, 1735, May 3, 1735); in 1736 'a great Number' of them (Ibid., Oct. 2, 1736); in 1737 a group of 171 (Saltzburger Nachrichten, II, 1026); in 1741 a party of 30, all but two of them are said to have died en route from Georgia to Saxe Gotha (Ibid., V. 1856); in 1744 a shipload of about 300 which was captured by the Spanish. (Journal of Council, Dec. 7, 1744; Public Records of South Carolina, Vol. 22, p. 110). After 1745 the influx of Switzers ceased, at least, as far as parties were concerned. As for Germans, there were from 1732 to 1745 only one or two parties of them. A shipload of indentured servants, probably from Wuerttemberg or the Palatinate, arrived in 1735.
> But in the 1740's the tide of emigration from Wuerttemberg was at the flood. Driven by economic hardships and oppressive laws, 2480 Wuerttembergers now set out for America. (Reply of the Geheimrath of Wuerttemberg to the Duek's question as to the number of persons who had emigrated in the ten years prior to 1750.) With these emigrants from Wuerttemberg were persons from the Palatinate and other parts of Germany...Of the several communities in South Carolina settled by German Protestants, Purrysburg, Orangeburg, and New Windsor were predominantly Swiss; Saxe Gotha, Amelia, Salkehatchie, the Dutch Ford, largely German.

acres in Saxe Gotha Township.[10] This township consisted of a strip of land on the southwest side of the Congaree River.[11]

The township of Saxe Gotha was first laid out in 1733 at the order of the Governor and Council.[12] Prior to this decision the area had frequently been in the news of the colony. Through this area ran the famous Cherokee Path, or sometimes referred to as the Broad Path. Over this path moved the traders and the Indians; it also served as a highway of commerce from the earliest days of trade between the settlers and the Indians. Eventually, the path became the chief highway of the province and at a later date for the state.

The land grant of Andrew Moak (1) lay about two hundred feet to the southwest of Broad Path.[13] This original Moak grant is of major interest to all of us. Its general location is shown on Map I. The official drawing of the grant at the time it was laid out is reproduced as Figure 3.

A few miles to the northwest of the site of the original grant to Andrew Moak lay the site of the Old Congaree Fort which had been established along Congaree Creek near the confluence of the Congaree Creek and the Congaree River. This fort was just across the river from the site of the present city of Columbia, S.C. The fort had been established in 1717 but was abandoned in 1722 when the garrison was disbanded by action of the colonial authorities.[14] Apparently there were a few settlers in the area prior to 1730 but intensive settlement did not get under way until after 1735.

[11] See Map No. 1. The South Carolina system for naming its principal river—The Santee—was quite unusual, if indeed not unique. From Map I it may be seen that the main stem of the river is called Santee for about the first 100 miles from the Atlantic Ocean. At this point it is joined by what would ordinarily be called a tributary. However, following a different practice than in most river systems, one finds that at the forks of the river (going upstream) each of the two branches bears separate names. Thus travelling upstream, the Santee name disappears completely. The south fork is known as the Congaree; the north fork as the Wateree. Within a distance of about 50 miles, the Congaree name disappears at a fork and one portion is called the Broad River and the other the Saluda River.

In the colonial period, and indeed at much later periods, this system of naming the rivers has led to much confusion. On the land grant records, one will find some interchangeability of terms and he must move with caution in any assumption as to the actual locations being indicated. For example, the original land grant to Andrew Moak (.1) read "on the waters of the Santee" when according to present day nomenclature it should have read "Congaree." S. C. Plat Books, Vol. 4, p. 322.

[13] On the plat of the Andrew Moak grant the path is identified as "Broad Path" but clearly this entry is the same path which is shown on the map on page 52 of Meriwether's work. Other references from time to time designate it as the Congaree Path.

Geo: Haig Dep.y Surveyor

The impetus to this development was given in a plan laid before the Board of Trade in London in February 1730. The memorial containing the plan was signed by twenty-one merchants and recited the adverse financial plight of the province and suggested that certain receipts from customs levies be appropriated for furnishing tools and provisions for poor protestant immigrants. Under the plan as finally approved by the Board of Trade, each settler was to receive fifty acres for each head in his family.[15] It is interesting that even at this early date tax exemption was among the items used to promote development. Thus ten years' exemption was provided from quit rents--a form of early taxation. The colonial assembly gave its assent to the plan in a statute signed into law by Governor Robert Johnson on August 20, 1731. Under this plan the receipts from custom duties on all commerce, except that derived from the importation of Negroes, was allocated to the settlement fund. The settlement fund was in turn used for laying out the townships, as payment of passage for poor protestants, and purchase of provisions and tools to enable them to become self-supporting settlers.

The first major settlement in Saxe Gotha came in 1735 when a group of more than twenty Swiss families moved into this area. Thus the settlement was only ten years old when Andrew Moak took up residence there. In 1736, Stephen and Joseph Creel brought in a number of German families. Migration increased gradually and by 1740 a large portion of the land along the Congaree had been allotted--both in Saxe Gotha Township now embraced largely by Lexington County and on the opposite side of the river in the territory now a part of Richland County.

During the seven years, 1741-47, colonization appears to have slowed down appreciably as Meriwether has reported only twenty-five grants during this period of which the Andrew Moak grant was one. He states that all except three of these twenty five tracts were to German families. It is assumed that he classified the Moak grant as German, although the basis for his classification is not clear. Meriwether did not appear to differentiate between new immigrants and those who like Andrew Moak had been in the province for a number of years.

The size of the grant to Andrew Moak indicates that his family consisted of himself and four other members, presumably his wife and three children. There is no record of the sex of the children, however at least one and perhaps two were sons, as we shall see in Chapter IV.

We interrupt the story of the Andrew Moak family here to introduce the Dominey family.

THE LAND GRANTS TO THE DOMINEY FAMILY

Our interest in the Dominey family lies in the fact that this family was to provide two wives to Andrew Moak (1.1.5), the grandson and namesake of Andrew Moak (1).

[15] In 1755 the rule was changed to provide 100 acres for the head of the family but continued at 50 acres for each other member of the family. Public Records of South Carolina, XXVI, p. 315.

From that union, or rather those unions, was to be derived the bulk of the Moak family of Mississippi.

The slow rate of immigration to Saxe Gotha in the early and mid-1740's was followed shortly by another wave commencing in 1749. Meriwether reports that by 1759 the population of the Congaree--a term to denote settlements on both sides of the river below the site of present day Columbia--had risen to about nine hundred.[16]

It was during this second wave that the Dominey or Dominie family (also sometimes spelled Dominic and Dominick) migrated to the Saxe Gotha area. (Generally the spelling Dominey will be used in the remainder of this work. Where a different spelling is used, it is because this different spelling is that found in the records upon which the reference is based.)

Andreas Dominey secured his first land grant of 100 acres on a branch of the Twelve Mile Creek as a result of application made in 1753. The approximate location of this grant is shown on Map I. The size of his grant tells us that his family consisted of himself and one other, presumably his wife. This would indicate that his children were probably all born in South Carolina.[17] Apparently Andrew Dominey was accompanied to South Carolina by a brother or other relative as there is record of a grant at about the same time to John Domine for 150 acres on a branch of Broad River. Unfortunately this grant, made pursuant to an order issued October 30, 1752, does not specify the exact location of the land except to place it on the South Side of Broad River. The plat drawing gives no further clue.[18] The Twelve Mile Creek is also on the south side of the Broad River and it is reasonable to assume that the two men were brothers.

CHAPTER 4

THE MOAK FAMILY IN SOUTH CAROLINA

1750-1820

In Chapters 2 and 3, the initial settlements of the Moak and Dominey families have been recorded. This chapter will trace the Moak family until the migration to Miss. in the early 1800's. Chapter 5 will be concerned with the Dominey family during the same period.

Andrew Moak had secured his land grant in 1745. The next record relating to him is that which sets forth the transfer of land to Andrew Moak by John Frasher (sometimes spelled Fraser) on October 23 and 24, 1753. This record is contained in a memorial by Jacob Moak[1] dated March 16, 1767. The memorial recites that prior to its date the land described therein had passed by descent to Jacob Moak (1.1) from his father Andrew. Given the fact that land at that time in South Carolina passed from one generation to the next under the law of primogeniture, we may be sure that Jacob was the oldest son of Andrew.

The foregoing facts would place the death of Andrew Moak (1) as falling between October 24, 1753, and March 16, 1767. It would also indicate that Jacob Moak had attained his majority not later than 1767, and probably at a considerably earlier date as he was doubtless one of the three children of Andrew at the time of the original grant to Andrew in 1745.

It is to be noted that on the Meriwether map, reproduced here as Map II, has indicated a strip of land just below that of J. Theiler which he has marked as "J.F.IV. 166." This was the land which had been acquired by purchase by Andrew Moak in order to give him access to the Broad River.

Again we are indebted to the research of Dr. Franklin E. Moak for locating a more definitive record of the purchase by Andrew Moak. This is recorded in Book D-5, p.12, of the Register of Mesne Conveyances at the Court House in Charleston, S.C. It records the transfer of this section of land acquired by Jacob Moak through inheritance prior to 1767 along with a portion of the original grant to Andrew Moak. Jacob Moak and his wife sold the land to Abraham Markly. The record recites that Jacob Moak was living on this land in 1779. Further, it sets forth that a part of the tract being transferred consisted of "one tract of land containing one hundred and fifty acres more or less being the remaining part of a tract of Land of Two Hundred and Fifty acres originally granted to Andrew Moak . . ."

[1] A memorial in colonial South Carolina was a recognition by a land owner of his that his property was subject to taxation. It was the counterpart to what is currently known as a rendition for assessment in many of our states. This memorial is contained in South Carolina Memorials, Vol. 9, p. 198.

Pursuant to a Precept from John Bremar Esquire Deputy Surveyor General to me directed dated the 4th day of May 1773, I have admeasured and laid out unto Jacob Moak, A Plantation or tract of Land Containing One hundred acres, Situate on the Narrows of Bull Swamp a Branch of Edisto River in Berkly County; Bounding to the Northward on Philip Puhly Land; to the Westward on vacant Land; to the Southward on Land not known; and to the Eastward on vacant Land. Having such form and marks as the above plat represents.

Surveyed the 15th day of Septr. 1773.

(Bounty)

Edw. Hampton D.S.

The financial consideration was stated as 8,000 pounds of "lawful money of South Carolina." While this appears a high price, it must be remembered that during the American Revolution the currencies of many of the embryonic states were at very low market value. It is not, therefore, appropriate to draw conclusions in terms of the prevailing value of English currency of that date. Even so, it appears that the amount was substantial.

Readers will be interested in the fact that the name is spelled "Mog" in a part of the documents recording this transaction.

Six years before this sale, the second record of a land grant to a member of the Moak family is noted and to some extent this is mystifying. The grant was made in 1773 to Jacob Moak and consisted of one hundred acres on "the Narrows of Bull Swamp on a Branch of the Edistoe River." On the same day, there was a grant to Adam Moak (also spelled Moock) of 100 acres on the Saluda River--along the Broad as was the grant to Jacob. The grants on the same day would suggest these two men were related, and perhaps brothers. Map I shows the author's estimate of the approximate location of these grants. One of the mystifying elements of these grants in the fact that the grant to Jacob Moak is marked "bounty"[2] whereas the one to Adam Moak is not so marked. Such an entry would normally denote that the grantee was a new immigrant to South Carolina. It is also possible that the grant represents a recompense for military service in one of the Indian wars in which the colony was involved in from time to time. Or, there may be some other basis not now known. It could be that this Jacob is not our Jacob Moak (1.1) but a nephew or some other relative not yet identified. It will be remembered that Jacob and his wife sold the original Andrew Moak tract in 1779 and that he had been in possession of it from 1767 or earlier. Jacob Moak was living in Saxe Gotha in 1776 as he was witness to the will of Henry Gallman dated December 2, 1776.[3] Mention is made in this will of lands of Jacob Moak.

An unexplained entry concerning Jacob Mock from South Carolina occurs at about the same time of these developments. The Georgia Archives for February 1760 record a petition of one Jacob Mock "lately come into the province South Carolina." This Jacob Mock secured a grant of 200 acres for himself, "wife and two children . . . at the back of Abercorn joining land of Paulus Baker, Christian Ziegler, and Michael Weaver." Later the name is spelled as Jacob Moak when he was recorded in 1766 as a resident of "lower Dutch Copen."[4]

It is entirely possible, and even probable, that Jacob Moak (1.1) did move to Georgia at this time as a result of the war with the Cherokee Indians. Thus he could have been a part of the group described by A.S. Salley:

[4] The Colonial Records of Georgia, VIII, 1759-1762, p. 233. February 1750 and IX, p. 660, October 1766.

> During the years 1759 and 1760 the people of Saxe Gotha suffered greatly from the ravages of the Cherokee War . . . Many were compelled to take refuge among the Germans at Ebenezer and Savannah whilst others fled for safety to Charleston, Purrysburg and other places, until those hostilities were ended, and peace and security was again restored.[5]

It is indeed possible, as has been conjectured by Dr. Franklin E. Moak, that Andrew Moak (1) could have been killed in these Indian disturbances and his family have moved to Georgia temporarily.

On the other hand, the precise composition of the family given in the Georgia grant does not conform to our other knowledge of his family composition. We assume that Jacob Moak (1.1) was not married in 1760.

However, it is possible that Andrew Moak (1) did not die until 1766 or 1767 and that the memorial filed in 1767 represented the first rendition by the son of the property newly acquired by inheritance.

Your author is inclined to the interpretation that the grant in Bull Swamp in 1773 represented entitlement on a bounty basis other than new immigration to the province. One of the bases for such bounty might have been military service.

We come now to the 1790 Census of South Carolina, being the first decennial census conducted under the then new Constitution of the United States. In this census, we find Jacob Moak in Richland County; Abraham Mokes in York County, and four Mock families in Edgefield County, and one Mock family in the Orangeburg District.[6] Readers will recall from Chapter 1 of this book the various spellings and their frequent interchangeability. Therefore, it is not possible to ascertain which of these are really related and which are not.

As to Jacob Moak, his family consisted of 2 males over age 16; three males under 16; and four females. Given the subsequent order of the listing of members of his family in the 1804 and subsequent papers relating to his estate, your author assumes that these were listed in descending order of age. Some other evidence points in this general direction. If this assumption is true, then in 1790, the Jacob Moak family consisted of:

> Jacob Moak, Sr., born prior to 1744; Mary - - -, his wife (assuming same wife as in 1779) born prior to 1760. Their children:

[6] Census of 1790. South Carolina on page 62 lists Benj. Mock, George Mock and John Mock; on page 66, there is Charity Mock; and on page 92, there is Mary Mock.

1. Jacob Moak, Jr., born prior to 1774. He and his father would thus account for the two males over 16.
2. Sarah Moak (born about 1775 or 1776 or perhaps in 1770 or earlier). She may have already married and been living with William Perry in 1790, probably in home of her father-in-law, James Perry.
3. Susannah Moak, born about 1778.
4. Elizabeth Moak, born about 1780.
5. Andrew Moak, born 1782.
6. Mary Moak, born about 1784.
7. Emanuel Moak, born about 1786.
8. John Moak, born about 1788.

The basis for these conjectures as to date of birth is discussed under the individual children in Part II.

Unfortunately, the U.S. Census for 1800 for Richland County has been destroyed so that no information for that year is available. However, before leaving the 1790 Census, it is appropriate to note two facts:

1. The names of the families of Andrew Dominey, Robert Price, Henry Hunter, Andrew Sanders, and James Perry all appear on the same page with Jacob Moak. These are the families into which several of the children mentioned above were in due course marries.
2. In nearby York County--there appears an entry for the family of Abraham Mokes (1.1.3) consisting of five males (2 over 16) and two females.[7] This age composition is similar to that of Jacob (1.1).

This author has not been able to connect up any thread of relationship nor has he been able to trace any of the children of Abraham Mokes, except to the extent that the entry in the 1850 Census of Kershaw County throws light on the matter. (See discussion in Part II, under 1.1.8.) There are a few unexplained members of the family which crop up from time to time in the records of Georgia, Alabama, and Mississippi. It is possible that these are descended from Abraham Moak. It is the opinion of your author that Abraham was a brother to Jacob Moak (1.1).

The 1790 Census lists no other Moak or Moke families. This leaves open the question of what happened to Adam Moak (1.2). A number of Mock families are listed but each of these is quite some distance from the two Moak families listed.

The date at which Jacob Moak (1.1) moved from his father's original homestead is presumed to be 1780 as he sold the property in 1779 and appears to have taken a short lease upon it. The move then made was one of about 25 or 30 miles to the site some eight to ten miles north of the State Capitol building in present-day Columbia, S.C. He was living there in 1790 and apparently died there. The land records do not show an original grant to him in Richland County. It is possible that he acquired the new property by purchase, rather than grant.

The only land grant to Jacob Moak, in this area which has come down to us is 75 acres which he acquired in 1800 as additional land. The drawing in the plat book shows the 75 acres to be a remainder plot fully enclosed by land already laid out to Jacob Moak, Andrew Sanders (or Launders) and James Craig.[8] Thus in 1800 he already had some land. Whether this had been purchased by the proceeds of the 1779 sale is not clear. Moreover the words used in the 1800 grant describe his adjoining land as precisely "laid out to Jacob Moak." This would suggest that he acquired it directly from the state, rather than purchase from some other owner.

NO RECORD OF REVOLUTIONARY WAR SERVICE FOR JACOB MOAK

The interest of many persons in the field of genealogy is stimulated, at least to some degree, by a desire to identify themselves with those who had a record of services in the American Revolution. Upon the basis of information developed thus far, there is no record of participation by Jacob Moak (1.1) in either the American Revolution or in any of the various Indian Wars. Given the long period of time which has expired since the Revolution and the fact that most of the extant materials have been carefully searched, this writer doubts that new information will be developed which will place Jacob Moak in the military service during the Revolution.

If one conjectures that Jacob Moak was born as early as 1740, then it is not difficult to understand that one of his age and probably family responsibilities at the time precluded his going into active military service as he would have been at least 35 at the outbreak of hostilities and more than 43 by the conclusion of the War.

On the other hand, much of the service in the militia and some that was not recorded in the era of true revolution. Men were more interested in the successful prosecution of the military campaigns than in the maintenance of records for us to pore over.

It is to be remembered that there was considerable activity in this area during the Revolution.[9] The important battle of Camden in 1780 was fought only some 30 or 40 miles away. Charleston itself was the seat of much of the fighting in the South.

[8] South Carolina Grant Books, 2nd Class, Vol. 48, P. —; South Carolina Plat Books, No. 38q, p. 710.

[9] The only evidence of any service in the American Revolution by any persons with names similar to that of Moak is the service recorded for Andrew Mock in the militia and amounts due to Joseph Mocks for furnishing supplies to the militia. In any event, we are concerned with Jacob Moak in this period and even if the Mock spelling should be Moak, the closest relationship could be that of brothers to Jacob Moak. See footnote, Chapter 1, Nos. 28 and 30.

The troops of both the British and American armies traversed this area several times during the Revolution.

THE ESTATE OF JACOB MOAK

So far as the record goes, this brings us to the death of Jacob Moak in 1804 and to the administration of his estate. Fortunately for the family historian and genealogist, numerous civil records are required along life's way, particularly at its conclusion. It is these which frequently provide the best available information.

The exact date of the death of Jacob Moak is not recorded, however, it is assumed to have taken place in the late summer or early fall of 1804. The application for letters of administration of his estate was filed by John Moak in Richland County, S.C., on October 15, 1804.[10] All of the papers which remain are filed in Box 21, Package 518, of the Judge Probate's office of Richland County. The papers contained in this package consist of several items. Because of their interest to his descendants, each of these is reproduced in Figures 4, 5 and 6 on the following pages.

The estate was appraised by Adam Kuhn, Lewis Coon, and Jasper Faust. Their appraisal was recorded on December 15, 1804. Later a report by John Moak as Administrator set the proceeds from sale of personal property at $479.63. His report of distribution is set forth on Figure 3. The participants in the distribution were listed in the following order:

Widow (name not recorded here, but in 1779 his wife was - - -)
Jacob Moak
Sarah Moak, wife of William Perry
Susannah Moak, wife of Thomas Hunter
Elizabeth Moak, wife of William Price
Andrew Moak
Mary Moak, wife of Robert Price
Emanuel Moak
John Moak

It is assumed that these names were listed by John Moak in the approximate descending order of their age. The conjecture has earlier been made that Sarah Moak had already married in 1790 and that the census related to the others listed above.

---

[10] The fact that this whole affair was handled by John Moak, presumably the youngest son who could at most have been only 21 years of age at the time makes one ponder as to why one of the older sons did not act. One possibility is that John who shows up in the 1810 Census was really a son of this John Moak; however, your author does not think so. John could read write, that was probably the answer.

As related subsequently, we find that Jacob Moak (1.1.1) had migrated to Tennessee at this time. Thus the oldest son was not at home.

Sales

While the proceeds from the personal property were distributed among the children as indicated above, your author has not been able to ascertain what disposition was made of the real estate. The Richland County records which would establish this were apparently burned during the destruction of many public buildings in the American Civil War.

(For a discussion of the contents of the inventory of the Jacob Moak estate, see comments in Chapter 6.)

The tracing of the family after 1804 has proved difficult. The 1810 Census for Richland County, S.C. contains the following entries for the Moak family, the Price family, and the Domini family.

	WHITE MALES					WHITE FEMALES
	0-10	10-16	16-26	26-45	Over 45	0-10	10-16	16-26	26-45	Over 45
John Moake	1	-	2	-	-	1	-	1	-	-
Jenny Moak	1	1	-	-	-	2	-	-	1	-
Andrew Moak	2	-	-	1	-	1	-	-	2	-
Robert Price	2	-	-	1	-	1	-	1	-	-
William Price	2	-	-	1	-	3	1	-	1	-
Andrew Domini	1	-	-	-	1	-	2	2	-	1

There are no entries for the Hunter or Perry families. It is known that they were in Robertson County, Tenn., along with Jacob Moak ten years later. It is probable that they had already moved West before 1810.

The entry of Jenny Moak, a widow as head of a household has us completely without a lead as to her identity. She could not have easily been the widow (as a second wife) of Jacob Moak (1.1). Even had she been a widow who married him just prior to his death, she would probably not have had three children under age 10. She would not be the wife of any of the four sons of Jacob Moak (1.1) as each of them married persons with other names (except we are not sure of the name of the wife of Emanuel, however he apparently was not married until after 1810).

The only plausible conjecture is that another Moak moved into Richland County after 1790 and died before 1810, leaving Jenny Moak as his widow.

In 1810 Andrew Moak (1.1.5) had, in addition to three children under age 10, two women in his home. One is his wife, a daughter of Andrew Dominey. The other could have been his wife's sister whom he was eventually to take as his second wife. More likely, however, she was a Miss Patsy Alexander, for whom Andrew was to secure a passport next year to accompany him and his family to Mississippi. Conceivably, if Jacob Moak's (1.1) widow was his second wife, this second woman in the family of Andrew could have been his step-mother.

The William Price family may have been and probably was that of Sarah Moak (1.1.2). The fact that neither Perry or Hunter families are listed leads to the presumption that they had already migrated to Robertson County, Illinois.

The final note for this chapter is that concerning the military service of Emanuel Moak (1.1.7) in the South Carolina militia during the War of 1812. He served for about five months between October 1814 and March 1815. (See Part II, 1.1.7 for discussion.)

The Census for Richland County, S.C., for 1820 contains no entries for either Moak or Dominey families. There is a listing for a Moses Moate, whom we cannot place. Your author has great doubt that the census record for 1820 is either complete or correct. In the first place the record of the enumeration is in alphabetical order by surname, arranged under two sections for the county--(1) Columbia and (2) the rural section. This clearly means that the original census which had to be taken on a house to house basis had then to be transcribed to the forms upon which the official enumeration is reported. Doubtless this resulted in omissions from the final record. Secondly, we know that the estate of Emanuel Moak was in the process of inventory on December 20, 1820, in Richland County. Doubtless he was alive and resident on the day of the enumeration which usually occurred in April. If he were not alive, certainly his family was present. Finally, the Moses Moate could have been a spelling or transcription error. However, as he is subsequently listed in the 1840 census as Moses Moate, perhaps we should assume that this is a different family.

Before continuing the discussion of the Moak family, it is appropriate to introduce the story of the Dominey family as to two streams join shortly for the bulk of the Mississippi Moaks.

CHAPTER 5

THE DOMINEY FAMILY IN SOUTH CAROLINA

1750-1850

NOTE: As previously mentioned, this volume for purposes of consistency uses the spelling Dominey. Where other spellings are used, they indicate the actual spelling in a particular document used as a source. Various spellings are found in the official records, including: Dominick, Tominie, Domine, and Dominic, as well as Dominey. Inasmuch as we have no copy of a spelling in the hand of a member of the family until 1849 and it is then spelled Dominey, this spelling is chosen for general reference. In general, the persons whose names have been spelled Domina are excluded on the assumption that the sound of the "a" is sufficiently different from the sound of "ie," "e," "ey," "ic," and "ick" to warrant such exclusion.

The initial settlement of Andrew Domeny, Sr. and John Dominic in South Carolina in 1752-53 is discussed in Chapter 3. We left them at that time on the southwest side of the Congaree and the Broad Rivers.

Our next knowledge of Andrew Dominey, Sr.,[1] is in connection with his military service during the Cherokee Expedition of 1759-60. Leonardo Andrea, a genealogist in Columbia, S. C. has prepared a useful little book entitled "South Carolina Soldiers and Patriots." In this account, he relates that Andrew Domini served in the Cherokee War in the 1759-60 expedition. His service was under Colonel Richard Richardson whose men were principally from the Camden District of Craven County. (The old Craven County embraced the present territory of Richland County.)

The service in this campaign, it will be remembered, was a part of the generally known French and Indian Wars in North America. (In Europe this conflict between France and England was known as the Seven Years' War, 1756-1763.) The South Carolina Historical Commission is reported by Leonardo Andrea to have the full muster and payrolls for the men in the Cherokee Expedition and it is from these rolls that he has compiled the record of numerous soldiers, including that of Andrew Dominey. An examination of the original rolls would doubtless reveal more precise information than the brief listings by Andrea.

[1] The record of the next half century is fragmentary. In addition to the information on Andrew Dominey, the following is of interest:

a. The land laid out to John Dominic in 1752 was still held by him on August 24, 1765.

b. We also have a record of a land acquisition of 100 acres by John Romny (probably Dominey) on November 4, 1751, in what is now Richland Co., S.C. This land was described as being on Jackson Creek, on the side of the Congaree opposite Saxe Gotha. This land was obtained from the heirs of Thomas Brown, a licenses trader with the Catawaba Indians as early as 1730. Meriwether in his work records on page 52 and again on page 54 the spelling of Romny. Also, Edwin L. Green in his History of Richland County uses this spelling on page 78; however, it is significant that in the index, Green's entry is "Romny (Domini?)".

Subsequent to this service and probably as a reward by colonial officials for such service, Andrew Dominey, Sr. (the record states Dominick in one place and Dominy in another) was granted 300 acres in "Craven County" in the year 1773. The land is described as lying on Gills Creek, a branch of the Santee River. The fact that the grant marked "bounty" suggests that Andrew Dominey was not a resident of South Carolina at the time of the grant but if it were for military service, as conjectured above, it should have been marked "bounty."[2]

At this point it is appropriate to raise the question as to whether the Andrew Dominey who secured the land grant in 1773 was the same as the one who secured the grant in 1753, or whether it was a father and son relationship. It is the assumption of this author that they were not the same person. This assumption is made from the fact that Margaret Dominey, widow of the Andrew Dominey securing the 1773 grant was known to have died in 1842. Her youngest child was born in 1802. It is known that she and Andrew Dominey, Jr., had lived as man and wife "for several years" prior to the American Revolution. Thus, she was not a second wife taken as a younger woman by Andrew Dominey, Jr., in his later life. Moreover, in 1790 the family consisted of husband, wife, and four children. In any event, if she had a son born in 1802 it is reasonable to assume that she could not have been little more than a very young child in 1753. In these circumstances this was doubtless a father and son relationship. Of course, the possibility that Andrew Dominey was the son of John Dominic should not be dismissed.

The next record of Andrew Dominey concerns his service in the American Revolution. The records in the Old War Section of the National Archives in Washington, D.C. show his enlistment in the 3rd South Carolina Regiment under Colonel William Thompson as being on July 24, 1776--less than a month following the Declaration of Independence. This service is assumed to have been in connection with the organized defense of Charleston, S.C., following the unsuccessful British assaults under Sir William Clinton and Sir Peter Parker in June 1776. The length of the service of Andrew Dominey at that time is not known.

Each of the descendants of Andrew Moak (1.1.5) is privileged to use this service of Andrew Dominey as a proper basis for qualifying as "sons" or "daughters" of the American Revolution.

In 1786, Andrew Dominey, Jr., purchased 75 acres of land from the State in Richland County, along Crain (Crane) Creek. This land was near the land he acquired in 1773 and may have been adjacent to it but the record is not clear on this latter point.[3]

The 1790 Census for South Carolina contains the following entries for Dominey families:

	MALES		FEMALES
	0-16	Over 16	All Ages
Andrew Dominy, Jr.,[4] Camden District, Richland County	1	2	3
Henry Domine,[5] 96th District, Newberry Co.	1	2	2
John Dominick,[6] 96th District, Newberry Co.	1	3	3

In 1798 Andrew Dominey, Jr., received a land grant of 200 acres along a branch of "Crain" Creek in Richland County adjacent to another tract already owned by him. Moreover, this grant is designated "bounty;" this clearly indicates that it was in recognition of the service which he rendered in the American Revolution. The land was very near the land of Jacob Moak (1.1) as indicated by the proximity of the listings of the two families in the 1790 Census.

1730221

We are without further specific information on the family until 1810, although it is known that Andrew Moak had married one of the daughters about 1803. In the 1810 Census of Richland County, S.C., the Moak and Dominey families are listed as immediate neighbors, particularly Andrew Moak (1.1.5). The Dominey family in 1810 consisted of the following, with tentative identification based upon other known facts:

1 male, over age 45	Andrew Dominey, Jr.
1 female, over age 45	Margaret Dominey, his wife
2 females, aged 16-26)	Polly Dominey, Sally Dominey
2 females, aged 10-16)	Sussannah Dominey, Margaret Dominey
1 male, aged 0-10	Andrew Dominey, III (1.1) b. 1802

Given the fact that Margaret Dominey's pension application filed in 1833 and now in the National Archives in Washington, D.C. contains a statement by Jasper Faust that she and Andrew Dominey, Jr., lived as man and wife before the American Revolution, would suggest that she had been born no later than 1750 as her final child was born in 1802.

Our next record of the Dominey family is in the papers relating to the estate of Andrew Dominie, Jr. He apparently died early in 1817 as we find a record of Margaret Domini and John Moak being appointed administrators of his estate on May 27, 1817.[7]

The bond for administration was signed by mark (X) by Margaret Domini, and in manuscript by John Moak, Benj. Hodge, and William Price (relationship to other Price family members not known).[8] The record of the sale of the personal property of Andrew Dominey, Jr., is preserved in what appears to be the handwriting of John Moak. As will be discussed in the succeeding chapter, this record is interesting as it helps to reflect upon the nature of the life led by rural families during this period. Figure 4 on the succeeding three pages presents a copy of this listing at sale.

The inventory of the estate upon which the sale was based was filed on June 19, 1817, by William Price,[9] Solomon Nipper, and Benj. Hodge. The inventory carried the following additional notations of interest:

One bed and furniture in the possession of each of the following:

Elizabeth Smith (wife of Daniel Smith)
Margaret Roizer (wife of John Royzer)
Sarah Hollman (widow of John Hollman)

The record of the distribution of the proceeds of the sale[10] under a return by John Moak showed distribution as follows:

Proceeds of Sale	$ 524.36
Cash	9.00
	533.36
Less payments in liquidation	44.66

Sale of cattle	105.00
	383.70
Widow--one-third	127.90
Divided among seven heirs $36.56--1/3 each	255.80

From a Bill of Equity (No. 176 Richland County) we know that the children of Andrew and Margaret Dominey were:

4. Margaret Dominey, wife of John Royser (Roiser)
5. Catherine Dominey, wife of Andrew Moke (1.1.5)
6. Susannah Dominey
7. Elizabeth Dominey, wife of Daniel Smith

Apparently the sale of the cattle was separately handled and brought $105, with the widow getting one-third ($35), leaving $70 to be divided between six heirs as the notation says that "Kathy" got no part of the cattle. This would be understandable as she was already living hundreds of miles away in Mississippi. However, it is not clear why she should not have been included in the distribution.

To get ahead of our story but to complete the notes which have been developed in this study as they relate to the Dominey family (other than Catherine and Susannah) it is appropriate to point out the following:

a. The 1820 Census for Richland County lists no person of the Dominey name. Only Andrew Dominey, III, would have appeared in any event as all the others were females and no longer heads of households. But by 1840, there is a reappearance of the name of Andrew Domini, III, who has a family consisting of himself, aged 50-60, another male, aged 20-30, one female aged 30-40, one aged 5-10 and two under age 5.

b. We know that on December 7, 1835, Margaret Dominey, wife of Andrew Dominey (d. 1817) made an application for pension as the widow of her veteran husband under the laws of the State of South Carolina. The application and supporting statements for this pension were signed by Benjamin Hodge (December 7, 1835) and Jasper Faust (December 14, 1835). All of these were executed before and attested to by Jonathan Watts, Justice of the Peace for Fairfield District (presumably Fairfield County), South Carolina. Fairfield is the county just to the Northwest of Richland County and presumably the Dominey family was living there in 1835.

Thus, it appears that Andrew Dominey, III, removed his residence from Richland County before 1820, was out of the county in 1830 and 1835, but had returned to the county in 1840. Moreover, on September 18, 1848, Andrew Dominey, III, made application for a survivor's pension arising out of his father's military service. The application was made before the Judge of the Court of Ordinary of Richland County. In the course of his application, he set forth that his mother had received a pension under Act of Congress and that she had died March 23, 1842, at an "advanced age." The records in the National Archives at Washington, D.C., contain a record of the pension having been paid to Margaret Dominy commencing on March 4, 1831, at the rate of $80 per annum.

In his application for the survivor's pension, Andrew Dominey, III, stated the following concerning his father's military services:

> Andrew Dominey, deceased, was a private soldier in the Third Regiment of the Fourth Carolina of the Continental Line commanded by Colonel William Thompson in the Company commanded by Captain Robert Goodwyn; that the Regiment was commonly called "The Rangers" in the War of the Revolution, his father the aforesaid Andrew Dominy having enlisted therein at an early period of the War and served for a period of three years for which he was enlisted; That his father at the time of his enlistment and going out into actual service lived in the District of Richland in the State of South Carolina and same neighborhood until his death which took place about thirty-two years ago, say in 1817. That as to the particular tours of service or counties through which his father passed in said service this deponent from his early age at the time of his father's death does not remember; That among his father's comrades was Benjamin Hodge, dec's and Jeremiah Taylor, dec'd, and many others but at this time the Deponent knows of none of his comrades alive . . .

Final payment on the Margaret Dominey pension was made on March 9, 1850. The only children to participate were Andrew Dominey and Mary Sanders. Accordingly, all of the others had previously died.

With the foregoing entry we close the chronology of the Dominey family itself. Attention will be given to the two daughters who married Andrew Moak (1.1.5) in Chapter 6.

CHAPTER 6

THE SOUTH CAROLINA OF THE MOAKS AND THE DOMINEYS

It is helpful in understanding our Moak, Dominey and other South Carolina forebearers to pause here and take a brief look at a few aspects of the country itself and the life of the period 1740-1820.

The first Europeans reported to visit any of the territory now embraced in the state of South Carolina were a group of Spaniards from Santo Domingo in 1521. From time to time over the next century and a half, various attempts were made to establish permanent settlements but it was not until 1670 that the first permanent settlement was established--at Albermarle Point on the Ashley River. The settlement was moved to the present site of Charleston, S.C. in 1680, or about 60 years prior to the arrival of Andrew Moak (1). The colony gradually extended along the coastal area but did not move inward in any degree until after 1720.

Until 1730, present-day North Carolina and South Carolina were merged into a single province, although the northern portion developed some independence of administration at an even earlier date. In general the Carolinas were governed until 1719 by the Lord Proprietors sitting in London. This condition became increasingly unsatisfactory to the colonists and in 1719 they rebelled. The government in London thereupon made the colony a Crown Colony and it was henceforth governed by the Board of Trade in London, with a local governor appointed by London authorities.

The first expansion into the back country commenced with the establishment of a line of garrisons marked off for defense and to facilitate trade with the Indians. Meriwether reports that in the Yamasee War of 1715 the colony narrowly escaped destruction. Of particular interest to our story is the establishment of the fort on the west side of the Congaree River in 1717. This helped to focus attention on the area and this became the site of one of the townships (Saxe Gotha) laid out a few years later.

The forts were important but proved expensive and difficult to maintain. In order to promote trade, strengthen defense, and reduce military commitments Governor Johnson in the early 1720's promoted a scheme to provide for settlement of "townships" in the inland. It is to be noted that this was not an orderly expansion from the coastal lands to the interior, but a deliberate jumping over undeveloped land to establish a number of widely separated outlying settlements.

Saxe Gotha Township was laid out in a fairly narrow valley along the Congaree River at a point at which the famous Broad or Cherokee Path generally paralleled the river. At the time of its initial settlement, this was virgin land except for occasional Indian settlements. Some of it was good and some not so good. All of it, except for some swamp like areas, seem to have been wooded (largely by pines) and had to be cleared before tilling could commence.

While slavery had been introduced into South Carolina at an earlier period, it did not initially flourish in these inland townships. Doubtless this was largely due to the low economic status of the new pioneers. The slow introduction of slavery was related to the land, to the crops, and perhaps to the religious scruples of some of the earlier settlers. Yet by the time of the 1790 Census, slavery had a significant foothold in the area and within the following 70 years was to expand at a rapid rate.

RELIGION

We have no specific record of the religious affiliation of the Moak and Dominey families while in South Carolina. During that portion of the Colonial Period with which we are concerned, the established Church of England (Episcopal) was the established church in the Carolinas. However, there was apparently a healthy tolerance of other protestant faiths. Among the early settlers in Saxe Gotha, a considerable portion was Lutheran. The Congaree Baptist Church was formed November 30, 1765 and appears to have been second only to the Lutherans in this area. It became the first church of any denomination in what is now Richland County, S.C.[1] It is reported by Meriwether that the Germans generally adhered to the Luthern or Reformed churches while the English went into the Baptist and Anglican (Episcopal) churches.

Green states that a number of residents of Richland continued to go across the river for religious services even after 1765. It appears that within a few years the Methodist and Presbyterian churches had each established congregations in Richland County. However, if we presume that the Moak family did not move into Richland County prior to 1780, the foregoing insofar as it relates to Richland County is unimportant. We do not have sources similar to Green's for present day Calhoun County in which much of the original Saxe Gotha was situated.

The Moak and Dominey families may well have been members of the Baptist Church established on Crane Creek about 1800. This church was moved into Fairfield County in 1826 and is known as the Crooked Run Baptist Church, or at least was so known in 1930.

It is reported that during the period following the American Revolution membership in the regularly organized churches fell off sharply as hundreds of persons transferred their religious worship to the popular camp meetings. We know that the members of the Moak family was largely Baptist in affiliation after they arrived in Mississippi. The Moak family is presumably German in origin and may well have been Lutheran or Reformed affiliation earlier.[2]

[2] Meriwether, p. 64. Also Leonardo Andreas a genealogist in Columbia S.C. holds the opinion that the Moaks were either Lutherans or members of the Dutch Reformed Church.

EDUCATION

By 1800 the older sections of South Carolina enjoyed advanced educational opportunities, at least for the well-to-do. In contrast, it is found that the first school was not established in Richland County until December 1795. Some itinerant teachers had functioned for individual families prior to that time but again these were largely for the instruction of the children of those who could afford the special costs involved. There is no evidence that any formal educational facilities were available to any of the Moak or Dominey children in South Carolina during the period under consideration. They were obliged to rely solely upon home instruction.

A further measure of the low estate of education during this period is the observation by Green that "very few books are mentioned in the lists of property left by earlier settlers."[3] It is to be noted that this observation specifically is reflected in the property lists of both the Moak and Dominey families as neither lists any books whatsoever. Doubtless copies of the Bible and a few other books were available.

From available evidence there was a very low attainment in formal learning by most of the people in the rural areas during this period. Yet it is significant that within the Moak family itself, members appear to have acquired at least the rudiments of literacy as most of the records indicate signature by manuscript, rather than by mark. Moreover, in such Bible records of the family as have come to the attention of the author, the records are always maintained in rather legible hand. However, much of the writing has been characterized by a considerable amount of mis-spelling. Heavy reliance was placed upon phonetic spelling which of course deviates considerably from the proper spelling.

No regular day schools were close at hand. The very apparent pressures of economic considerations which precluded attendance at residential academies. These combine to account for these low educational attainments.

AGRICULTURE

The Moak family in South Carolina and later in Mississippi were strictly people of the soil. There is no record which would indicate that any of them engaged in commerce (except for milling of grain, ginning of cotton, and some occupations carried on ancillary to agriculture), either in South Carolina or Mississippi until after 1900. A part of this was doubtless due to lack of opportunity or lack of skill but a considerable element of this attachment to the soil would appear to have been deliberate.

A review of the inventories of both Jacob Moak (1.1) and Andrew Dominey will help to reveal just how close to the soil these men and their families lived. The items of inventory relating to agriculture itself were:

[3] Green, p. 144.

	MOAK	DOMINEY
Horses	1	2
Wagons	1	1
Ploughs with stocks and gear	3	3
Harness	2 pair	2 pair
Saddles and bridles	1	2

Axes)	1
)	1 lot	1 lot

Carpenters tools	1 lot	1 lot
Iron wedges	1 lot	1 lot
Misc. iron	1 lot	1 lot
Reap hooks	1 lot	-
Wagon wheels	1 pair	-
Iron traces	-	1 pair
Collar frames	-	1 pair
Baskets	1 lot

While there were a few extra items, the foregoing list is just about complete. With only one horse in the Moak inventory and two in the Dominey, the limitations are clear. Allowance should be made for the fact in the Moak family, however, that several of the sons were already married and their equipment did not appear in the foregoing list. Jacob Moak (1.1) was probably too old for active farm work. In terms of produce on hand, it will be remembered that this was generally before the day of the cotton gin, mechanical spinning and weaving, and, of course, ahead of the sewing machine. In these circumstances, the market for cotton was limited. In fact Green[4] states that cotton was not introduced into Richland Countil until just before 1800. The first cotton gin in the area is reported to have been on Mill Creek in 1795 but presumably was processing cotton grown across the river. The principal revenue crop during this period was indigo.

From the foregoing and other facts, it is obvious that these people were an extremely self-sufficient group. They subsisted to an amazing degree upon the food grown at home, supplemented by fish and wild game. This is borne out by the lists of domesticated animals and fowl enumerated in the inventory lists which may be summarized as follows:

	MOAK	DOMINEY
Cattle	10 head	10 head
Sheep	-	14 head
Goats	-	5 head
Sows with pigs	3	-
Hogs	17	22
Pigs and Shoats	-	14
Geese	-	6
Hives of bees	3	7

The relative low stock of these items held by Jacob Moak was doubtless due to his age, which is assumed to be at least 65 and perhaps considerably older at the time of his death in 1804. Moreover, as mentioned above, he had probably sold and given to his children a considerable portion of his holdings. This, for example, would help to account for the lack of geese. All younger families of this period tended to maintain a number of geese, primarily to enable them to pluck them periodically for the feathers which were one of the primary sources of comfortable bedding.

The presence of the bee hives suggest that bees were a primary source of sweets for the table. Obviously milk, beef and pork were readily at hand.

The Moak inventory contains nothing as to edible commodities and the Dominey inventory is almost equally unrevealing. The latter does, however, mention a quantity of corn, some tobacco and vinegar. According to Green[5] other foodstuffs raised on the farms included wheat, sweet potatoes, and peas. Grist mills were fairly common in the area. The failure to list additional commodities probably arises from the fact that due to either law or custom of the region, the widow was entitled to most of these without inventory.

It is significant that neither inventory included any carriage or other vehicle beyond the wagons listed. This meant that transportation was limited to horseback, wagon, and one's two feet.

THE HOME

While there are no records, it is reasonable to assume that these families lived in houses built of either round or hewed pine logs. A number of specimens of this type of rural home have existed in the area until fairly recent dates and are commented upon by most contemporary writers covering the period.

The houses were generally small. This arose from such factors as the amount of labor required for construction and the problem of heating larger homes from fireplaces, the general custom of crowded living brought from Europe, and the pre-occupation with agriculture.

The paucity of space in the home and more particularly of kitchen equipment, would be the complete undoing of most modern housewives, even those who like to "rough it" in summer places. Again, the inventories give a good clue to the mode of living. For example, the kitchen equipment consisted of:

	MOAK	DOMINEY
Pots	1 iron 1 lot	1 large 2 small

	MOAK	DOMINEY
Pot hooks	1 lot	1 set for each pot
Skimmer and fleshforks	1 set	1 set
Skillets	1	1
Dutch oven	1	1
Coffeepots	1	1
Plates and pewter	2 lots	2 lots
Bottles	1 lot	1 lot
Crockerware	2 lots	1 lot
Cooper's ware	2 lots	5 lots
Cannisters	2	-
Steel mill (probably for coffee grinding)	2	-
Hogshead	1	-
Barrels, "tite"	1	1
Barrels, in general	4	2
Barrels	-	2 lots
Casks	-	2
Jugs	1 lot

The final two entries cause one to wonder whether one family took its refreshments from the jug while the other preferred the cask. The foregoing list significantly omits any reference to a churn, with which to make butter. Perhaps one of the items listed as crockerware was used for this purpose.

Moving to household supplies, one might deduce that cleanliness was restricted to the Dominey family. Its inventory lists a pot of soap, whereas the Moak inventory is silent on this subject. The inventory of household items was:

	MOAK	DOMINEY
Soap	-	1 pot
Hemp	1 lot	-
Hemp and toe	-	1 lot
Wool	-	2 baskets
Cotton	-	1 bag; 28 lbs.
Leather	1 side	-

The foregoing is a skimpy list indeed. It suggests that some items must have been omitted. One cannot easily imagine the Moak family with no means of producing cloth for clothes and household needs.

Moving finally to the lists of other household goods, one is impressed by the fact that despite all else, they must have slept well--or at least enough to account for the high birth rate.

The inventories for the remainder of the two family holdings were:

	MOAK	DOMINEY
Bedsteads with lots of furniture	4	3
Beds with lots of furniture	-	2 (plus 3 in hands of others)
Chairs	4 + 1 lot	2 lots
Tables	1 lot	-
Spinning wheels	2	1
Looms	1	1
Stays	1	2
Cards (for carding cotton or wool)	2 pair	2 pair
Smoothing irons	1 pair	1 pair
Baskets	-	1
Chests	2	-
Candle sticks and snuffers	1 pair	-
Trunk	1	-
Foot tub	1	1

Again the Dominey's win in cleanliness. Not only do they have soap but also a tub in which to use it. But the Moaks are one up on light; they had the candle sticks and snuffers.

It is hoped that the foregoing helps to bring some clearer picture as to how these and many others in the region lived during this period. Not a very gadgeted life. Surely one could not accuse them of being guilty of possessing very much in the way of comfort items--except for the beds, of course.

Lest the present population pressures distort our view, let us remember that in 1790, Richland County had only 483 families. The total population of the County, excluding slaves and free persons not members of the listed families, there were precisely 1,479 persons--about three to a family. Such an average is misleading as a number of one-member families were reported. Quite a few of the larger families run to 10 or 11 members, with two families of 14 noted. Beyond this, it will be recalled that children married early. As a result, the older children in many families were already married and enumerated in their new households rather than along with their parents.

In 1790 there were about as many slaves as free persons, but ownership of slaves was restricted to less than two-fifths of all families. Five families owned upwards of 50 slaves and one owned 160. Another 16 families owned between 25 and 50. Thus, ownership of most of the slaves was narrowly concentrated. As noted earlier and probably for economic reasons, the Moak and Dominey families were not slave owners.

Before leaving this portion of our discussion, it is appropriate to note that Richland County increased rapidly in total population between 1790 and 1810.

It is also interesting that when the Moak and Dominey families settled in Richland County, there was no settlement at the site of present day Columbia--some ten to twelve miles away from the original settlements. The fight for movement of the capitol from Charleston to a new site came to a head in 1786. Taylor's Hill near the Congaree was chosen and shortly the city was laid out according to the plan of development provided by the commissioners appointed for the purpose. The requisite buildings, including the capitol, were erected and the government moved from Charleston to Columbia in 1789.

One of the highlights of local history during this period was the visit of President Washington in 1791. He arrived on May 22 and remained for three nights. There were both private receptions and public affairs. It is reasonable to suppose that at least some of the members of the Moak and Dominey families were present at some of the public appearances.

Washington's recorded observation as he moved along the road to Camden was:

> The road from Columbia to Camden, excepting a mile or two at each place, goes over the most miserable pine barren I ever saw being quite a white sand and very hilly.

The growing population pressures, soil conditions, the competition of slave labor, and rising prices of even the poor land combined to help explain the migration of various members of the family to new land in the west, gives a clue as to the reasons which prompted Andrew Moak (1.1.5) in 1811 to move west.

This chapter purposely omits any discussion of the Indian tribes in the vicinity. There is a long and complicated story of Indian movements and to treat this adequately would require more space than is available here.

Space also precludes a really adequate description of life and times in South Carolina. Even so, the foregoing account helps us to understand something of the land, its peoples and customs and gives some glimpse into the life being lived. With this, the narrative for South Carolina closes; we move on to Mississippi and Tennesee.

CHAPTER 7

THE WESTWARD MOVEMENT

The first two decades of the 19th Century saw the family move in different directions. The general distribution of these eight children of Jacob Moak (1.1) were as follows:

1.1.1 Jacob Moak married Rachael Sanders, moved to Robertson County, Tenn., and died there in 1822. Some of his children moved on to Illinois.

1.1.2 Sarah Moak married William Perry, moved to Robertson County, Tenn., and was living there as late as 1830.

1.1.3 Sussanah Moak married Thomas Hunter, moved to Robertson County, Tenn., and was living there as late as 1830.

Thus the first three children moved to Tennessee about 1800.

1.1.4 Elizabeth Moak married William Price, moved to Pike County, Miss., and died there.

1.1.5 Andrew Moak married Catherine Dominey, moved to Amite County, Miss.(later Pike and still later Lincoln) and died there.

1.1.6 Mary Moak married Robert Price, moved to Miss. and died there.

The second three children, therefore, moved to Mississippi.

1.1.7 Emanuel Moak continued in Richland County and died there in 1820. His son Jacob (1.1.7.1) moved to Miss. and died there.

1.1.8 John Moak continued in South Carolina, presumably dying there between 1840 and 1850.

It was only shortly before this work was published that information concerning the migration to Robertson County, Tenn., came to light. In view of the recency of this discovery, this work is principally concerned with the last five children of Jacob Moak (1.1). Perhaps at some future date, a revised edition will permit full development of the story for the first three.

In this chapter, we are principally concerned with the movement to Mississippi of three of the children and one grandchild of Jacob Moak (1.1).

ON TO MISSISSIPPI

Family records do not reflect the specific motivation for the move to Miss. Nor do the records set down the exact conditions under which the movement took place. Accordingly we are obliged to rely upon a combination of oral stories handed down on a hand to mouth basis, coupled with some general information regarding the reasons for migration to the west.

THE CONDITIONS AT TIME OF MIGRATION

At the close of the American Revolution, England recognized the independence of the thirteen colonies and ceded to the United States all of the territory now embraced in the United States on the East of the Mississippi River, except the portion generally south of the 31st parallel. At the Treaty of Paris in 1782, recognizing the independence of the United States, Great Britain, which had owned East Florida returned this to Spain. Although Britain recognized the 31st parallel as the lower limit of the U.S., Spain contended that the lower limit was in a line at the mouth of the Yazoo River. It was not until the treaty of San Lorenzo el Real of 1796, that Spain relinquished its claim to the land between the Yazoo and the 31st parallel--the present southern boundary of Mississippi between the Mississippi and Pearl Promptly after the settlement of this dispute, Congress organized the Mississippi Territory, which embraced most of the present states of Mississippi and Alabama. The Mississippi Territory was organized in 1798 and in 1804 was extended North to the Tennessee line. After the seizure of West Florida by the U.S. in 1810-13, the southern limits were extended to the Gulf of Mexico.

Therefore, until 1798, this territory was not available for colonization by Americans. Even so, there had been some earlier settlements under Spanish ruse or under disputed authority. According to Casey,[1] the first white settlers in Amite County were John Foster (March 15, 1789) and Elias Connell (May 5, 1790) when the area was still under Spain. Casey reports a total of 14 settlers between 1789 and 1798 when Spanish troops were finally withdrawn.[2]

The availability of this new land coincided with developments back in South Carolina that prompted the movement of many families to the new frontier. It will be recalled that prior to the American Revolution, the population was generally along the eastern seaboard and was almost wholly east of the Appalachian mountain chain. A few venturesome persons had moved on to the west but the number was small. In the first census (1790) the total population of the U.S. was only 3,929,000. Only twenty years later this population had almost doubled--to 7,239,000. Obviously, this population pressure in a society which was almost totally agricultural resulted in need for expansion to new lands. Those portions of the Moak family which chose to move west were among that expanding population.

Present-day Richland County, S.C., had been opened up in the late 1740's. By 1800, almost all of the original land had been granted or sold to settlers. As the children of these settlers reached their majority and formed families, the alternatives were to subdivide original holdings or for the new families to move west. Also, even a relatively few years of agricultural effort frequently depleted the productive capacity of the soil--either through erosion or lack of crop rotation.

[1] Casey, I, p. 476.

[2] Casey, I, p. 450.

As previously stated, three of the eight children of Jacob Moak (1.1) moved to Miss. One stayed on for a few years but his only known descendant producing a family also moved to Miss. Those moving to Miss. were:

1.1.4 Elizabeth Moak, who married William Price.
1.1.5 Andrew Moak
1.1.6 Mary Moak, who married Robert Price.
1.1.7.1 Jacob Moak, the only child of Emanuel Moak who produced a family.

Beyond this, we have the statement of Mrs. Claude H. Booker (1.1.8.6.1.2) who states:

> We heard our grandfather L. W. Moak, Jr., tell many times of how their family along with other members of the family started out to Miss.--How they came through Rome (Georgia) and then, because of illness in their immediate family, returned to S.C.

The statement indicates that other members of the family had intended also to migrate. Just which members is unknown, however, presumably these would have included L. W. Moak, Jr.'s grandfather John Moak (1.1.8). If this be true, the quoted statements refers to a much later migration (in the 1850's or 1860's), the details of which are not known.

Each of these families moving to Mississippi have produced a large number of descendants. This particular genealogy is primarily concerned with the descendants of Andrew Moak, however, to the extent that information is available, it is presented on the two branches which stayed in South Carolina as well as the three known to have moved to Miss. about the time of the migration of Andrew Moak.

The primary route of migration from South Carolina was first across country to Milledgeville, Ga.--presumably through Augusta, Ga., but a northern route was apparently also available. From Milledgeville, Ga., the capitol of Georgia from 1804 to 1868, the trail picked up. It was known in this early era as the "Three Chopped Trail" properly descriptive chops made on trees at regular intervals.

According to Roland,[3] the mileage along this trail from Milledgeville to Montecello, Miss., was 455 miles. The various stations with mileage from Milledgeville were:

1. Chattahooche River	140 miles
2. Point Comfort	171
3. Fort Decatue	52
4. St. Stephens	238

From this information we conclude that after the passport was granted in Milledgeville, Andrew Moak and the others had a trip of about 500 miles ahead of them. This added to the more than 175 miles from Columbia, S.C. to Milledgeville, brings the total trip to almost 700 miles. Given the conditions under which travel had to be carried on, it is likely that an average of 15 miles per day would be significant progress. Assuming also that travel probably was halted from time to time, it is fair to assume that 100 miles per week was good progress. This would mean two months or more on the road.

We presume that Elizabeth Moak Price (1.1.4) was the first member of the family to migrate to Mississippi. Even though there continues to be a William Price in Richland County in 1810, family tradition states that the migration of Elizabeth and William took place about 1805 is supported by the land grant which is recorded on July 14, 1807. Under this grant, William Price acquired 320 acres of land on the Amite River.[4]

Although the date of the migration of Andrew Moak (1.1.5) is fixed within a fairly narrow margin, the exact date is subject to some question. The family has traditionally reported that Andrew Moak arrived on October 12, 1812. This, however, is open to considerable doubt in view of the fact that the passport for passage through the Indian Nations was granted Friday, November 1, 1811.[5] The entry reads:[6]

> ORDERED that passports be prepared for the following persons to travel through the Indian Nations to the Western County, viz,
> One for Lewis Coon with his wife six children and one negro, and one for Mr. Andrew Moak with his wife, three children and a young lady, Miss Patsy Alexander, all from Richland District South Carolina. Which were presented and signed--

[5] In some of the papers passed among members of the family, this date has been improperly cited as March 1, 1811.

[6] This is a transcript from the original volume of the Minutes of the Executive Department, (State of Georgia) January 1, 1811-September 30, 1812, p.181. Certification of citation provided by Mrs. Mary Givens Bryan, Director, Department of Archives and History, State of Georgia (1516 Peachtree St., NW, Atlanta, Ga., under date of July 6, 1960. Frequently the citation is to Hays, Georgia Passports. See further note in bibliography on this matter.

This application was signed by the Governor at Milledgeville, which was the capitol of the State of Georgia from 1804 to 1868. Given the fact that Milledgeville is by present most direct major highway routes more than 175 miles from where Andrew Moak lived in Richland County, S.C., a question arises as to whether he was enroute at the time the passport was applied for and granted or whether this was a preparatory move taken some eight months in advance of departure from Richland County. It is, of course, possible that the application was made by mail sometime in advance of the planned trip. Normally, however, passports are sought and issued immediately prior to projected use.

A number of years ago your author examined the tax rolls of Amite County for 1812. These rolls were dated May 30, 1812, and on them there appears the name of Andrew Moke as a taxpayer. Couple this with the fact that given the reliance upon agriculture, it would be normal to migrate after the crops were harvested and to be on site in the new home to clear ground for spring planting and I believe it is fair to assume that Andrew Moak and family were enroute at the time of application and granting of the passport in November 1811.

While discussing the matter of passports, and given the large number of intermarriages between the Moak and Reeves families, it is appropriate to report that William Reeves, his son and a Negro were on Tuesday, June 2, 1801, granted a passport to go through the Creek Nation to settlements on the Alabama Rivers and return.[7] Mr. Lazarus Reeves, his wife and six children from Richland County, S.C. were granted a passport on Wednesday, March 6, 1811, to "travel through the Creek Nation of Indians."[8]

Returning to Andrew Moak's passport, we note that his Richland County neighbor, Lewis Coon, was granted a passport the same day. The Miss Patsy Alexander has not been identified as to relationship.

Upon arrival, Andrew Moak settled on a creek which came to be and is still known as Moak's Creek.

CHAPTER 8

THE MISSISSIPPI COUNTIES OF AMITE, PIKE, LAWRENCE AND LINCOLN

Many persons are confused by the intermittent references in source data to these counties. Moreover, insofar as our family is concerned, there is also confusion at times with Marion County.

Prior to the formation of Pike County in 1816, almost all of the territory in which our ancestors settled was in Amite County. A small portion of the settlers were in Lawrence County which lay to the North.

By studying the maps on the following page the reader can see how the boundaries were changed from time to time as new counties were created. From 1816 to 1870, the boundary between Pike County and Lawrence County ran directly through Bogue Chitto. When Lincoln County was formed in 1870, the present boundaries in which most of the Moak family is interested became stabilized as it is today.

Accordingly, we find Andrew Moak in Amite County in 1812. Later some references are to Pike County. After 1870, most of the references are to Lincoln County. All of this arises from the fact that the same land was incorporated in these different counties as the present county system of Mississippi was developed.

In the text of Part II, county name designations are used which were contemporary to the time covered by the occurrence. Thus a person may be reported as born in Amite County and died in Lincoln County, although he was in fact born and died in the same house--if the birth occurred prior to 1816 and the death after 1870.

PART II

THE DESCENDANTS OF JACOB MOAK
(1.1)

Part II of this work is devoted to tracing the descendants of Jacob Moak (1.1) on a family by family basis. Obviously, there is incomplete information of much of the family, yet there is presented in the part all of the information which the author has been able to collect to date.

The narrative stops when the information runs out. This means that frequently there is an abrupt ending. A second edition of this may be issued some years hence, and, if done such future edition will incorporate new information and corrections to the information included in this part.

THE NUMBERING SYSTEM. Authors of genealogical works are continuously confronted with the problem of proper numbering or other identification of persons mentioned. The numbering system for this work is as follows:

Each page in Part II carries a number in the upper right hand corner, such as

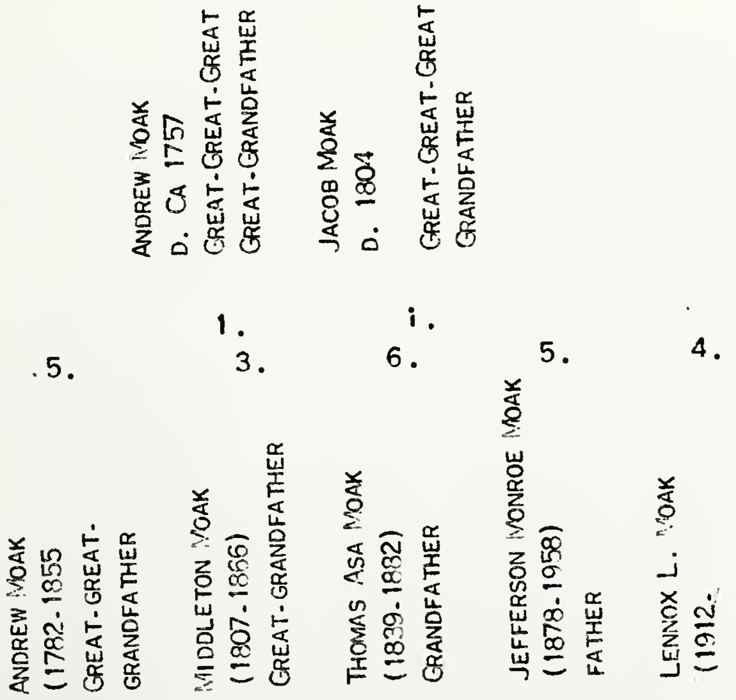
5.3.6.5.4

This is the number of your author and means



ANDREW MOAK

This also means that Andrew Moak (1.1.5) was the fifth child of Jacob Moak (1.1), and Middleton Moak (1.1.5.3) was the third child of Andrew, etc.

When the birth order of the children is known, the children are listed in proper numerical sequence. When it is not known, they are listed in the order which they have come to the attention of the author. Only when dates of births are shown in the sequence numbering a reliable indication of the true birth order.

In the left hand margin opposite each family discussed, the specific identification number is set forth. For purposes of conservation of space, the 1.1 is omitted in the marginal notation, but carried at the top of the page.

When a child is listed with a (*) preceding the number of this child, it means that there is further discussion of this child below. Thus if we are discussing Middleton Moak, Sr., the entry appearing under Andrew Moak, we would find:

*3. Middleton Moak, Sr.

The reader should then look below for discussion of Middleton Moak, Sr., or where there is an intermarriage between cousins, the (*) in front of the number of the female is an indication that the reader should refer to the male line shown.

PART II

CHAPTER I

THE FAMILY OF JACOB MOAK

Jacob Moak, Jr., is presumed to have been the first child in his family. We have relatively little information on this portion of the family at an early period. Unfortunately, the evidence which we do have is conflicting. On the one hand, the late Columbus Calhous Moak (1.1.8.1.6.9) stated to your author in 1945, that he was a direct descendant of this Jacob Moak, through Laban Wade Moak, Sr., and Laban Wade Moak, Jr. Your author has proceeded upon the assumption that this was correct, even though no confirmation could be found in the U.S. Census or other records.

Recently, however, evidence has come to light which requires the conclusion that this was not the case. Rather, it now appears that Jacob Moak, Jr., along with his brother-in-law (Andrew Sanders) his sister Sarah Moak Perry, and his sister Sussanah Moak Hunter all moved to Robertson County, Tenn.

Upon the basis of this new information, it appears that Jacob Moak was born prior to 1775 in either Lexington or Richland County, S.C. He married Rachel Sanders, probably a sister to the Andrew Sanders who had land adjacent to that acquired by Jacob Moak, Sr., in Richland County.

The Census for Richland County, S.C. for 1810 does not reflect Jacob Moak as a resident and the Census for Robertson County, Tenn., for 1810 is missing. However, in the Census for Robertson County, Tenn., for 1820, we find the entries set forth on the next page.

*"Ca 1774" means an estimated date of 1774.

The Sanders family and the Hunter family were not found

CENSUS OF ROBERTSON COUNTY, TENN., 1850

On page 103 in the home of W. H. Sherrod, age 37, there is Levina Sanders a native of Tennessee, a. 40. This is probably his sister-in-law as his wife is shown as age 37.

The following is shown opposite the dwelling number for enumeration purposes:

We also learn that in September 1822, the will of Jacob Moak was probated in Robertson County, Tenn. According to the will, Jacob's wife Rachel and two sons, Jacob Moak and Ezekial Moak received a part of his land and personal property. Reference is made in these papers to another son, Andrew Moak. Further information points to a guardian being appointed for minor daughters: Martha Moak, Barbara Moak, and Lydia Moak. Finally Richard Moak is listed as having bought something at the sale of his father's estate.

Then there is the Henry Moke family in the 1830 Robertson County census, who is referred to as Henry Moke in the 1840 Census. Finally, there is the entry in the 1850 Census of Robertson County for Julina Moak as head of household, together with her child or children and probably a brother, George W. Moak.

From all of the foregoing, we tentatively set forth the entry for Jacob Moak (1.1.1) as follows:

I Jacob Moak, born about 1774 and married to Rachel Sanders, born prior to 1775. Their children:

* 1. Andrew Moak
* 2. Henry Moak
* 3. Ezekial Moak
4. Jacob Moak, born 1794-1802
5. Richard Moak, born 1802-1804
6. Martha Moak, born 1804-1810
7. Barbara Moak, born 1804-1810, and listed in her mother's home in 1830.
8. Lydia Moak, born 1810-1815, and listed in her mother's home in 1830.

1.1 Andrew Moak was born 1798 in Tennessee. Beyond the information set forth under his father's estate, we have the record of the Census of 1840 of Williamson County, Ill., in which he is listed as age 40/50 with family consisting of:

1 female, age 40-50
2 males, aged 15-20
1 male, aged 10-15
1 male, aged 5-10
2 males, aged 0-5
1 female, aged 15-20
2 females, aged 10-15

In the 1850 Census for Williamson County, Ill., he is listed as follows:

Andrew Moak, aged 52, born in Tenn.
Lydia Moak, aged 52, born in Tenn. The children:

1. Elizabeth Moak, aged 26, born in Tenn.
2. Ezekial Moak, aged 25, born in Tenn.
3. Rhody Moak, aged 24, born in Tenn.
4. Mahales Moak, aged 22, born in Tenn.

1.1 cont'd
5. Jacob Moak, aged 21, born in Ill.
6. Isaac Moak, aged 19, born in Ill.
7. Abraham Moak, age 13, born in Ill.
8. Andrew Moak, aged 11, born in Ill.
9. Lydia M. Moak, age 1, born in Ill.

The foregoing would indicate that the family moved from Tennessee to Ill. in 1828 or 1829.

Comparing this with the preceding census, the age brackets correspond precisely.

1.2 Henry Moak is listed as a resident and head of a household in Robertson County, Tenn., in 1830 and 1840. In 1840, his family consisted of himself (born 1800-1810) and his wife (b. 1790-1800). Their children:

a. son, born 1825-30
b. daughter, born 1825-30
c. son, born 1830-35
d. daughter, born 1830-35
e. son, born 1835-40
f. two daughters, born 1835-40

He is not listed in the 1850 Census for Robertson County, Tenn.

In the Census for 1850 for Williamson County, Ill., on page 229, we find a Henry I. Moke (or it could be Moles as the handwriting is not fully legible. The family of this Henry I. Moke is listed as follows, with all members being born in Tenn.

Henry I. Moke (or Mole) a. 50
Charlotte, a. 51. The children listed are:

3. Lydia Moke, a. 17 (1833)
4. Jacob Moke, a. 15 (1835)
5. Nancy Moke, a. 13 (1837)
6. Henry Moke, a. 11 (1839)
7. John Moke, a. 9

The foregoing age spread corresponds very closely to the 1840 Census of Robertson County, Tenn. This warrants the conclusion that this is the same family.

It also indicates that two children born prior to 1830 were no longer at home. Doubtless, one of these was John Moak.

1.2.1 John Moak is shown in the 1850 Census as John Moke in the household of John Brummet in Williamson County, Ill. He is shown as having been born in Ill., and as being aged 21 in 1850. His wife is shown as Elizabeth Moke, aged 21, born in Tenn. Their child:

1. James W. Moak, born in Ill., aged 2.

1.3 Ezekiel (or Ezekial) Moak. Beyond the information related above under his father, we have the 1840 Census enumeration for Williamson County, Ill., in which Ezekiel Moak is listed as head of a family consisting of:

himself, aged 30-40
wife, aged 30-40
children:
  1 male, 0-5
  2 females, 5-10
  2 females, 0-5

In addition, there is another female aged 70-80. This could have been his mother, who was listed in 1830 as aged 50-60 or could have been his mother-in-law.

In the 1850 Census for Williamson County, Ill.,* his family is listed as follows:

Ezekiel Moak, age 46, born in Tenn.
Mahales Moak, age 41, born in Tenn. The children, all born in Ill.:

1. Rachel Moak, age 18
2. Jacob Moak, age 15
3. Nancy Moak, age 12
4. Polly A. Moak, age 10
5. Andrew Moak, age 7
6. Marguerite Moak, age 2

Comparing this with the 1840 Census, it appears that the oldest daughter was married and had moved from her father's home. This also indicates that Ezekiel moved to Illinois at least as early as 1832.

The Remainder of the Jacob Moak (1.1.1) Family

Information concerning the Tennessee and Illinois branches of the family came to the author only two months before closing the manuscript for this volume. Therefore, the story ends here for the time being. Perhaps a supplement at some future date can enlarge.

PART II--CHAPTER 2
THE FAMILY OF SARAH MOAK

Sarah Moak appears to have been born prior to 1775, and may even have been born prior to 1770. She married William Perry. It is presumed that she was married prior to 1790 and was not among the children enumerated in her father's house in 1790. There is no William Perry listed in the 1790 Census for Richland County, S.C. There is a James Perry, who may have been William's father.

Aside from participation in her father's estate, our next firm information is from the 1820 Census* for Robertson County, Tenn. William I. Perry family is listed as:

1 male, over age 45 (William Perry)
1 female, over age 45 (Sarah Moak Perry)

3 males, 10-16
2 females, 0-10
1 female, 10-16
1 female, 16-26

Also, in the 1820 Census for Robertson County, includes an entry for Joseph Perry as head of household, aged over 45. Other members of the household consisted of:

1 female, over age 45
1 male, 18-26
1 female, 10-16

While this would establish her oldest child at home as being born between 1794 and 1804, she could have had older children already married.

In the 1830 Census for Robertson County, Tenn., the entry for William I. Perry carries him as age 60-70. Other entries are:

2 females, 20-30
1 female, 30-40

In the 1840 Census, William Perry is no longer listed. There is however, John I. Perry, aged 40-50, with family as follows:

1 male, 0-5
1 male, 5-10
1 female, 0-5
1 female, 5-10
1 female, 20-30

In all likelihood, John is one of the sons reported in the 1820 Census. On the other hand, the age spread does not agree.

In the 1850 Census for Robertson County, Tenn., the following entry is found:

John I. Perry, age 51, a native of S.C.

---

*See discussion under Jacob Moak (1.1.1).

2 cont'd
Anna Perry, age 40, a native of Tenn.
Joseph Perry, age 18, a native of Tenn.
Manerva Perry, age 16, a native of Tenn.
Elizabeth Perry, age 13, a native of Tenn.
William Perry, age 11, a native of Tenn.
Luther Perry, age 4, a native of Tenn.

Upon the basis of the foregoing, it is not possible to undertake to try to construct a consistent projection as to the membership of the family and what eventually happened to it. On the other hand, it is fair to assume that this is really Sarah Moak and the William Perry of Richland County, S. C., particularly in view of the presence in the same county of Jacob Moak (1.1.1) and Sussanah Moak Hunter (1.1.3).

Further research will doubtless bring this branch of the family down to date at a future time. Some sources state that the Perry family moved to southern Illinois along with the sons of Jacob Moak (1.1.1).

PART II

CHAPTER 3

THE FAMILY OF SUSSANAH MOAK

From the available information, it appears that Sussanah Moak was born between 1775 and 1780, probably about 1778. She was married to Thomas Hunter, who was born between 1760 and 1770. They were probably married between 1794 and 1804. Aside from participation in her father's estate, our next record is in the Robertson County, Tenn, Census of 1820.

In that record, Thomas Hunter is shown as aged 45+ with his family consisting of:

1 female 45+

1 female 16-26
1 female 10-16
1 male 0-10

In the 1830 Census for Robertson County, Tenn., Thomas Hunter is shown as head of a family, aged 60-70. Other members of the family consisted of:

1 female 50-60

1 male 15-20
1 female 15-20

In the 1830 Census there is also shown Mathew Hunter as head of household. He was aged 20-30 which would place him in line as a son of Thomas Hunter, however, the age spread does not agree with the 1820 Census information.

The family of Mathew Hunter in 1830 consisted of:

1 female 60-70 (probably his mother-in-law or other older relative)
1 female 20-30 (probably his wife)

1 other male 20-30
2 males 15-20
1 male 5-10
1 male 0-5
1 female 0-5

Doubtless some of these were his children and the others were relatives.

In neither the 1840 or 1850 Census has any Hunter family been identified. Again there is the story from one source that the Hunters also moved into southern Illinois.

CHAPTER 4

THE FAMILY OF ELIZABETH MOAK

4. Elizabeth Moak was born in Richland County, S.C. about 1780. On March 11, 1799, she married William Price, who was born about 1780. The records of Richland County Probate Court for 1832* lists the heirs of Robert Price and included in the group are:

Wade Moak, whom we cannot positively identify, however, we assume this is the son of either Jacob Moak (1.1.1) or John Moak (1.1.8).

John Moak (1.1.8) and his wife Anna. Presumably Anna was a daughter of Robert Price.

William Price, who married Elizabeth Moak (1.1.4).

Robert Price, who married Mary Moak (1.1.6).

Elizabeth Moak and William Price migrated to Mississippi in the early 1800's. The exact date is not known, although Dr. Franklin E. Moak states that it was about 1805. Casey records a grant of 320 acres on July 14, 1807, the Amite River in Amite County. However, the 1810 Census for Amite County does not reflect him as a resident. (There was a William Price listed in the 1810 Census of Richland County and another in 1840. Just where these fit into the picture is not known.) Their children:

1. Susan Price, born January 25, 1800.
* 2. Martha Price
3. Marlow Price, born July 4, 1804.
4. Esther Price, born June 14, 1807.

CHAPTER 5

THE FAMILY OF ANDREW MOAK
(1782-1855)

We have already made considerable reference to Andrew Moak in Part I, Chapter 7. This will not be repeated here.

Andrew Moak was born March 1, 1782, in Richland County, South Carolina, first married about 1803, to Catherine Dominey. Readers are directed to Part I for a discussion of the Dominey Family.

When Andrew Moak secured his passport on November 1, 1311, he already had three children. His wife, these children and an unidentified Miss Patsy Alexander, accompanied him to Mississippi.

It was to a spot just southeast of the present town of Norfield, Miss., in what is now Lincoln County, that he came. At that time this territory was in Amite County, in 1816 it was incorporated into the newly formed Pike County, and in 1870 into the present Lincoln County.*

The route they traveled is not known, however, it is presumed that they came along the "Three Chop Trail." The approximate route of this trail is shown on Map - -. The mode of travel is not known; however, there is an off-repeated tradition in the family that Andrew brought his belongings from South Carolina to Mississippi in a barrel through which a shaft had been driven and the horse hitched to this odd conveyance. If this be true, then the said barrel must have indeed been sturdy when one considers the number of revolutions which it would have to make on such a long journey.

Another version of family history says that he brought his family and a minimum of belongings on his first trip. This version states that he then returned to Richland County and by wagon then brought the remainder of his belongings. The absence of a second passport would throw some doubt on this assertion; however, many records have been lost so no conclusive facts are known.

The new land to which Andrew Moak came was a part of the Mississippi Territory which had been organized in 1798. Apparently he first settled upon land without benefit of a formal grant.

The land grants in the name of Andrew Moak (1.1.5) may well have included some in the name of his son (1.1.5.6), particularly during the 1850's. No distinguishing indications were noted in the records examined. For the purposes here, the grants are assumed to all have been to Andrew Moak (1.1.5). They were;

*See Part I, Chapter 8 and Map IV. Actually, it was in Lawrence County territory but all records say "Amite County."

This portion of Mississippi, particularly in the bottom lands was quite fertile, and Andrew Moak chose some good lands on which to settle. Upon arrival, he erected a log cabin which consisted of one large room with an attic sleeping space and an adjoining room, probably used as a kitchen. At a later date a third room was added.

The cabin was still standing in ruins when this author first visited the site in 1944. On a more recent visit, almost all of the logs had been torn down and many of them carted away as firewood.

Within a short time of the date on which Andrew Moak took up residence in Amite County, the War of 1812 broke out.

In this war, Andrew Moak appears to have had three periods of service:*

a. August 25 to November 1813. He enlisted in the 1st Regiment of Mississippi Volunteers at Topisaw and was discharged at Magee's Creek. Lt. John Nixon was in command.

b. From April 10 to October 7, 1814, he served as a draftee in Capt. Spencer's Company of the 13th Regiment of Mississippi Territory Militia.

c. Again on January 6, 1815, he enlisted for a three month period of service in Captain David Cleveland's Company of the 13th Regiment.

This author has been advised that the Lincoln County Advertiser (Miss.) in issue of October 8, 1959, carried an article stating that Andrew Moak was a lieutenant in Capt. Spencer's Company, but he has not be able to verify the source upon which this statement is made.

Miss. Territory in War of 1812.* Book F. p. 166; Publications of Missippi Historical Society, IV, p. 170 and p. 203; and records in National Archives, Washington, D.C.

The first of these two periods of service was in connection with the war with the Creek Indians. A full account of this and other events with which Miss. troops were concerned in the War of 1812 can be obtained from Rowland's extensive statement on this subject.

The second period of service was in connection with the British invasion of the Gulf Coast, culminating in the Battle of New Orleans on January 8, 1815.

The 1815 service was in conjunction with the British invasion late in 1814, first of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and of Louisiana. They operated from a base in Pensacola, Florida, and late in 1814 it became apparent that they planned an invasion of Louisiana through New Orleans.

As a part of the defense against this British invasion, military authorities organized militia forces and sent them to the Gulf Coast. The records of the Old War Section of the National Archives in Washington, D.C., show that Andrew Moak enlisted as a private in Captain David Cleveland's Company of the 13th Regiment of the Mississippi Territory Militia, War of 1812. The enlistment is dated January 6, 1815, and due to the success of the American troops under General Jackson in the Battle of New Orleans on January 8, 1815, followed shortly by word that a treaty of peace which had been executed in Europe late in December 1814, the Company was disbanded on February 5, 1815, and Andrew Moak was discharged.

For his month's service, he was paid $8.00. Apparently the troop mobilized at the Marion County Court House in Liberty, Miss. No record of just where the troops were stationed in the month of service has been located.

As a result of this service, all descendants of Andrew Moak who have an interest in such matters are entitled to membership in any society of the sons or daughters of the War of 1812. One of the descendants was successful in securing an official marker for the grave of Andrew Moak which is situated on a plot immediately adjacent to the original Moak homestead on Moak's Creek in Pike County. (Subsequently the marker was removed to Moak's Creek Church Cemetery.)

To return to the story of Andrew Moak, we find him listed as the head of his family in the U.S. Census of Pike County for the years 1820, 1840 and 1850. The entries are as follows:

1820	0-10	10-16	16-26	26-45
Males	2 Henry Andrew, Jr.	2 Middleton Jacob	--	1 Andrew, Sr.
Females	1 Margaret	1	1 Mariah	1 Catherine (Dominey) Moak

The female in the age 10-16 bracket is not identified.

The 1830 Census for Pike County is missing, and there is no entry for the Moak family in either Lawrence or Amite counties.

The 1840 Census identified only the heads of households and gives numbers according to age brackets. The numbers listed below are according to the census. The names represent the author's allocation of the children. This means that the six oldest children had married and no longer lived with Andrew in 1840.

1840	0-5	5-10	10-15	15-20	40-50	50-60
Males	1 Martin	4 Laborn Joseph Zachariah Alexander	1 James	1 John	1	1 Andrew, Sr.
Females	-	1 Martha	1 Elizabeth	2 Mary Catherine	1 Sussanah Dominey, his second wife

It is appropriate to note that the differentials in age for Andrew and his wife are similar to those in the 1820 Census between Andrew and the unidentified frmale in that census, which gives crédence to the believe that Sussanah Dominey was living in that household at that time.

1850 CENSUS

This is the first federal census in which the full membership of a family is listed, along with their sex, ages, and state of birth. The entry for 1850 for Andrew Moak in the Pike County Census is as follows:

Andrew Moak, Sr., aged 68, born in S.C.
Zachariah, son, aged 20, born in Miss.
Labon, son, aged 18, born in Miss.
Joel, son, aged 16, born in Miss.
Martha, daughter, aged 15, born in Miss.
Martin, son, aged 12, born in Miss.

THE WIVES OF ANDREW MOAK (M 1.1.5)

As has been stated earlier in this work, Andrew Moak married twice and, quite unusually, married sisters. His first wife was Cathering Dominey who died on July 18, 1821 after having borne him seven children--four sons and three daughters--during a married life which lasted little more than 17 years.

Andrew Moak then promptly, on December 25, 1821, married his first wife's sister, Sussanah Dominey. She was born November 18, 1790, in Richland Co., S.C. Their first child was born only eight months later. This union lasted for about 19 years and from it came seven additional sons and three daughters. Thus when Susan Dominey Moak died on January 16, 1841, Andrew Moak was the father of seventeen children. He was then almost sixty years of age and did not again marry.

The most remarkable thing is that all 17 lived to adulthood. Not only this, but sixteen of the seventeen married and most of whom produced one or more children--to a total of more than 120 grandchildren according to the sources which your author has been able to uncover.

Our further information concerning Andrew Moak is limited. We note from the records of the Mississippi Baptist Association, as reported by Casey,* that Andrew Moak was a delegate to the Mississippi Baptist Association from the Friendship Baptist Church in the meetings of October 15, 1836, and September 30, 1842.

Andrew Moak died on March 1, 1855, and as noted earlier, he was buried in the family plot adjacent to his home.

The children of Andrew Moak (1.1.5) by his first marriage to Catherine Dominey were:

* 1. Mariah Moak
* 2. Jacob Moak
* 3. Middleton M. Moak, Sr.
* 4. Henry Franklin Moak
* 5. Margaret Moak
* 6. Andrew Moak, Jr.
* 7. Catherine Moak

In his second marriage on December 25, 1821, to Sussanah Dominey, his children were:

* 8. John Moak
* 9. Mary A. Moak
*10. Elizabeth Moak
*11. James Moak
*12. Alexander Moak
*13. Zachariah Moak
*14. Laban Moak
*15. Joel Moak
*16. Martha Moak
17. Martin Moak, born about 1838, and killed in the Civil War in 1862. Family information indicates that he was not married and that his death occured at the Battle of Shiloh.

.1 Mariah Moak, born January 4, 1804, in South Carolina, moved to Mississippi with her parents in 1811. She lived until March 18, 1852.

Very little is known concerning her family. The following paragraph has come down to us as a statement from Andrew Moak's old family Bible.*

> "Mariah, first child of Andrew Moak married Si Relyes and on the 14 July 1844 loaded her children in a wagon and left with her preacher husband. Never again came back.
> "Mariah Rials died 18 Dec. 1852, aged 49 years, liking one month. Died suddenly. Buried at Mount Mariah way up in Lawrence County. Elder S.S. Rials died 4 June 1877. A good man has gone up higher."

It is reported that there were two children:

1. Ves Rials who died April 22, 1892.
2. Johathan Rials who died June 13, 1896. The 1880 Census for Lincoln County, 29th District Beat No. 1, lists Jonathan Rials, age 65, a carpenter, with both parents as natives of Mississippi. Also shown are his wife Susan, age 61, and grandson Willie Rials. Whether this is the same one is not known.

No further information concerning this branch of the family has come to the attention of your author.

*This statement was transcribed from the original Andrew Moak Bible into the family Bible of Leroy Bowman (d. February 18, 1845) and Susan Bowman (d. August 19, 1881). The Bible descended to Elizabeth Reeves Price who married Willie Bowman December 6, 1848, then to Dr. W. L. Bowman.

5.2 Jacob Moak, born November 16, 1805, in Richland County, South Carolina, died September 26, 1842, in Pike County, Mississippi. He married Nancy Corley,* who was born August 15, 1821, and died May 10, 1895. The children of Jacob Moak and Nancy Corley were:

* 1. Elizabeth Moak
* 2. Zirilla Moak
* 3. Matilda Moak

In addition to these children, the census of 1840 for Pike County lists one male child aged 15-20, residing in this household. Presumably this was not his child.

7. Ruby Albritton, who married Dudley Lilleg
8. Jacob Albritton
9. William Albritton

5.2.2 Zirilla Moak, born about 1838. Her first marriage was to Floyd Reeves (1.1.5.10.1). See that reference to trace their children. She also reported to have married Zachariah Wallace; however, this may be confused with the second marriage of Matilda Moak (1.1.5.2.3).

5.2.3 Matilda Moak, born about 1839, in Pike County was married first to Mr. Warren. Their child:

1. Lila Warren, who married Emanuel Herrington.

Her second marriage was to Zachariah Wallace, born about 1839. The children of Matilda Moak and Zachariah Wallace were:

2. Drucilla Wallace, born about 1863 and married to James Brown.
* 3. Lenora Wallace
* 4. Dora Wallace
* 5. Hester Wallace
* 6. Janie Wallace
* 7. Malissa Wallace

*She was the sister of Sarah Corley, wife of Middleton Moak (1.1.5.3) and also sister of Mary Ann Corley, (See 1.1.5.2.3). Following the death of Jacob Moak, Nancy Corley was married to William (Bill) Reeves and gave birth to four Reeves children: (1) Martha Ann Reeves (1846 -) who married Robert Prestridge, Sr. (2) William Reeves, Jr. (1854 -) (3) Josah Reeves, (4) Thomas Reeves (1848 -).

*Florence Genia McFadden's parents: (a) Samuel Jackson McFadden, born July 25, 1857. He in turn was the son of John McFadden. On December 1, 1881, Samuel Jackson McFadden married Celia Ann Welch, born Jan. 28, 1861.

5.3 Middleton Moak, Sr., was born in Richland County, S.C., on December 29, 1807. He accompanied his parents to Mississippi at the age of four.

We know nothing further of Middleton until the time of his first marriage, which proved to be the first of four. In 1829 or a few years earlier, he married Sarah Elizabeth Corley, the daughter of Margaret Brown and Jacob Corley.*

Different members of the family are not in agreement as to just how many of the Middleton Moak children were the children of this marriage. After reviewing the evidence available, your author believes that there were only five, rather than seven as contended by some.

These fire, all girls, were:

* 1. Margaret
* 2. Catherine
* 3. Nancy
* 4. Louise
* 5. Priscilla

It appears the Middleton's first wife died about 1837, probably following the birth of Priscilla. As was the custom in that period with widowers with small children, there might be deep mourning, but the need for someone to help care for the orphaned children led promptly to a second marriage. The second wife was Sarah Pate, born in Mississippi in about 1817. They were married in Amite County. There were also five children from this marriage:

* 6. Thomas Asa (or Acie)
* 7. William A.
  8. James E. Moak was born in 1844 and in the 1850 and 1860 census records resided with his father. No other information.
* 9. Middleton M. Jr.
*10. Julia

At some date between mid-1850 and 1853, Sarah Pate died, as we know that Middleton Sr. took a third wife in 1853. She was Mary Jane Coward, a native of Mississippi, and reported in the 1860 census as aged 32. For the third time there were five children:

*11. Jane E.
*12. Jefferson
*13. Zachariah
*14. Richard
*15. Caroline

.3 cont'd Between 1860 and 1863, Jane Coward died and Middleton then married the final time. This wife was Matilda J. "Tildy" Rushing who was born in Mississippi in 1834. It appears that fate had determined that five would be the magic number for again Middleton had five children:

*16. Sarah
*17. Martha Jane
*18. Jacob A.
*19. Missouri E.
*20. John H.

Middleton Moak, Sr., thus became the parent of the largest number of children known to have been born to any member of the Moak family. The runner-up was his father who had a mere seventeen.

Middleton was about sixty-two years of age when his youngest child was born--almost forty years after the birth of the oldest. Middleton Moak died on April 5, 1875, in Pike County, Missouri. Following his death, his fourth wife, who at that time was about 39 years of age, married William Templeton (Ca 1854 -) and is reported to have had additional children by him but your author has no record of them.

Middleton was a farmer and apparently had fairly extensive land holdings about five miles west of Norfield, Mississippi. The house in which he lived is still standing and is built of logs, subsequently covered by siding. Among the lands he acquired as original owner, between 1832 and 1854, were 440 acres in Sections 7, 17, and 18 of R5N, T7E.

5.3.1 Margaret Moak born about 1830 appears to have been married twice. First to - - - - King and then to - - - - Price. These marriages occured after 1850 as she was living in the home of her father unmarried at that time. Information concerning her life and children is lacking.

5.3.2 Catherine Moak (Ca 1832 -). No information available beyond her residence with her father in 1850. Some sources report that she married a Gatlin.

5.3.3 Nancy Moak born in Pike County on March 23, 1833 married Joel Moak (1.1.2.15). Doubtless this marriage to her half-uncle was the scandal of the day and your author has been told that there was much tongue wagging. Inasmuch as this work reports descendants under the male line where there is an inter-marriage of Moak relatives, the reader will refer to 1.1.5.15 for further information.

5.3.4 Louise Moak, or perhaps Anita Louise Moak was born about 1834 and was married to Isaac Davis. No record of this family is available.

5.3.5 Priscilla Moak born about 1837 was married to Henry D. Clark but we have no record of this family.

5.3.6 Thomas Asa (sometimes Acie) Moak was born in Pike County on December 9, 1839. We know little of his childhood but the record of his service in the Confederate Army is filed in Washington, D. C. in the National Archives. He served as a private in Captain J. M. Brister's Company of Mississippi

5.3.6 cont'd Volunteers, which was known as the Bogue Chitto Guards. Later this Company was designated successively as Captain Carter's Company, and as Company B, 7th Regiment, Mississippi Infantry. This Company was raised at Bogue Chitto on May 1, 1861, and Thomas Asa Moak was mustered into service at Bay St. Louis, Miss. There is a subsequent enlistment at Shieldsboro, Miss., on September 27, 1861, and a note indicated that he was mustered into service again at Bay St. Louis on October 3, 1861, by Brig. Gen. C. G. Dahlgreen, 3rd Brigade, Army of Mississippi.

Apparently he spent virtually all of the years 1861, 1862, 1863, and the first half of 1864 on assignment at Bay St. Louis. In October 1862, he became a corporal and in November and December of that year was absent on account of some wound received. It was not until July 22, 1864, that he received a wound in his knee which led to amputation of his leg on October 17, 1864, at Floyd House & Ocmulgee Hospital, Macon, Ga. He had apparently received this wound during participation in the defense of Atlanta under Generals Johnston and Hood against General Sherman's assault. The day following his amputation, he was granted furlough and no further service is indicated.

Following his return home, he was married to Julia Sasser.* She was born January 28, 1848 and died June 13, 1929.

Thomas Asa Moak and his wife took up residence in a log cabin about six miles west of Bogue Chitto, near the present Arlington Baptist Church. Subsequently, upon invitation from his mother-in-law, they moved into the Sasser ancestral home, built in 1846 on the old Meadville-Natchez road. This property included W½ of NE¼ Sw 7T5, R7E and was acquired by J.G.H. Sasser in 1853. It was transferred by Martha Sasser to Julia Moak November 24, 1871, and again February 22, 1886. This house still stands and the condition, while not good, is testimony to how well it was actually built when one considers the long periods of poor maintenance to which it has been subjected. It has recently been moved back from the road to make way for a modern house, owned by one of the Sasser family. It was in this house that the family resided during the last quarter of the 19th Century. Mrs. Moak retained the house until about 1905 when she sold it to her son Mr. Thomas M. Moak. Following his death, the house was sold to one of the Sasser family.

Thomas Asa Moak was a shoemaker by trade; however, upon his return from the Civil War, he appears to have followed farming as his primary occupation. He died on December 18, 1882. Their children:

* 1. William James Moak
* 2. Joseph Middleton Moak

*Her father was James Gale Hale Sasser, born in South Carolina May 17, 1810, and died in Pike County, Miss. in 1862. The mother of Julia Sasser was Martha "Patsy" Hollis born in South Carolina in 1812 and died in Miss., in 1870. In turn Mr. Sasser was the son of Stephen Sasser, born in New Bern, N. C. in 1780 and died in Miss. in 1861, and Frances Hart, born at Columbia, S.C. in 1790, and died in Mississippi prior to 1840.

Julia Sasser had been married during the Civil War to a Mr. McManus. He rode off to church one Sunday morning and never returned. There were no children by the first marriage.

CHAPTER 1.1.6

The relation of Mary Moak's husband, Robert Price, to other members of the family has already been touched upon in the discussion of Elizabeth Moak (1.1.4) and will not be repeated here. We have an entry for a Robert Price in the 1810 Census of Richland County. This entry read:

PART II -- CHAPTER 7

THE DESCENDANTS OF EMANUEL MOAK

(1786-1820)

Emanuel Moak was born in Richland County, S.C. about 1786. We know that he participated in his father's estate in 1804. He died in 1820 in Richland Co., S.C. and the papers relating to his estate are contained in Box 21, Package 518, in the office of the Probate Judge in Richland County, S. C.

His wife's first name was Elizabeth and some sources state that she was Elizabeth Reeves, however, no adequate confirmation is available. If this statement is correct, she was probably the sister of Elizah Reeves who migrated to Pike County, Miss., and whose children figure prominently in the Moak family record.

Emanuel Moak served in the War of 1812. The records in the Old War Section of the National Archives, Washington, D.C. show service of Emanuel Moak as follows:

a. Served in Capt. Taylor Jr's Co. of Infantry under Lt. Col. McWillies Regiment of S.C. Militia. The allowance for pay for traveling expenses shows that it was dated at Charleston, S.C., March 9, 1815. This was the date of his discharge at Charleston. His residence is shown as Richland District. The point of rendevouz is stated as Columbia which is calculated as 135 miles from point of discharge.
b. Service is recorded for the period October 7, 1814, to October 30, 1814. 24 days at $8.00 per month--$6.10.
c. Roll dated November 20, 1814, at Haddrill's Point indicates that he joined service October 7, 1814 for a period of six months. He was marked present for the periods October 7, 1814 to February 28, 1815. His total service was to March 7, 1815, or 5 months. Another record, dates service from March 31, 1814 with a total of 4 months, 8 days at $8.00 per month. This would be the continuation of the service under #b above.

His children:

* 1. Jacob Moak
2. Mary Moak, who died prior to 1841, without issue.
3. - - - Moak

.1 Jacob S. Moak was born in South Carolina in 1815 and died February 26, 1873, in Pike County, Miss. In 1844, he married Mary Asseneth Hood, born in South Carolina in 1825 and died after 1880 in Pike County, Miss. (The 1860 Census shows him as age 40, born in S.C. and she as age 35, born in Miss. In 1860, he was reported to have $1,200 in real estate and $400 in personal property.) The family lives in the Holmesville, Miss. neighborhood and the necrology is reflected in the graveyards there.

Jacob S. Moak came to Mississippi prior to his marriage and the papers relating to his father's estate contain a statement by him signed in "Laurens" County (Lawrence County), Miss., on September 28, 1841. The 1850 Census shows him, his wife and two oldest children as natives of North Carolina but there is a land grant, December 6, 1836, to a Jacob Moak as NE ¼ SW¼. See 7T5N, R7E. Whether this is to him or to Jacob Moak (5.2) is not known. Family sources suggest that he lived in Mississippi for a number of years principally in the household of his uncle, Elizah Reeves, and then returned to South Carolina for his marriage in 1844. In 1850, he and his family were enumerated in the census for Pike County, Miss. Their children:

8. THE DESCENDANTS OF JOHN MOAK

John Moak was born about 1788. He participated in his father's estate and was the son who applied for letters of administration of the estate of his father in 1804. This estimate of the date of his birth is confirmed by the 1840 Census of Richland County, S.C., where he is listed in the age bracket 50-60 which would place his birth date between 1780 and 1790.

He married Anna Price, daughter of Robert Price of Richland County, S.C. Robert Price died in Richland County, S.C. in 1803 but it was not until 1832, that a bill in equity in the courts of Richland County definitely show him as the husband of Anna Price and as such as a beneficiary of the estate of Robert Price. His wife Anna was the sister to the Robert Price, who married Mary Moak (1.1.6) and William Price, who married Elizabeth Moak (1.1.4).

Despite the belief of the late Columbus Calhoun Moak that Laban Wade Moak, Sr., was the son of Jacob Moak (1.1.1) your author has concluded that Laban Wade Moak, Sr., was in fact the son of John Moak. His reasons are two-fold:

a. Jacob Moak is now known to have married Rachael Sanders and to have moved to Robertson County, Tenn.
b. In the papers relating to the estate of Robert Price (d. 1803), we find along with John Moak and his wife Anna Price, the name of Wade Moak as a beneficiary.

Without doubt, Anna Price Moak shared in the estate of her father and her son (Laban) Wade Moak also shared. There is no other logical explanation for Wade Moak being included in the distribution of the Robert Price estate.

This view is buttressed by the fact that we have no evidence beyond the Columbus Calhous Moak statement that Laban Wade Moak was the son of Jacob Moak (1.1.1). In all likelihood, he was confusing the fact that Laban Wade Moak was the grandson, rather than the son of a Jacob Moak.

In the Census of 1810, the family of John Moak consisted of:

2 males 16-26. This would be John and probably his brother Emanuel (1.1.7).
1 male 0-10. This would be Laban Wade Moak, Sr.
1 female 16-26. This would be his wife, Anna Price Moak
1 female 0-10. A daughter, name unknown.

We are unable to locate John Moak in the 1820 Census; however, we are also unable to find Emanuel Moak or his son Jacob. Just why the census failed to list them is not know. See comment under 1.1.7.

This census does list in the adjoining county of Sumter a John Moak, however the age span and distribution would not conform to the John Moak family.

In 1840, the census for Richland County, S.C. lists John Moak aged 50-60, a male 15-20, probably a son, and no females. The same census lists L.W. Moak (Laban Wade) as age 20-30 and wife 20-30. He has no children but there is another man in the house aged 60-70. It is not clear from the census whether the head of the household is the older or the younger man; however, your author assumes that the L.W. Moak was the younger man and the older man probably his father-in-law.

Upon the basis of this information, we conclude that John Moak had at least three children:

• 1. Laban Wade Moak, Sr.
2. A daughter born between 1800 and 1810.
3. A son born between 1820 and 1825.

Doubtless there were other children but we have not been able to trace them. The only child for which we have known descendants is Laban Wade Moak, Sr.

In 1850 Census, no members of the Moak family are listed in the Richland County Census. Nor were any listed for Lexington County, S.C. In Kershaw County, an Abraham Moak was listed as age 35, with wife S. A. Moak, age 31 and children Andrew, a. 10, Moses, a. 7, Mary a. 5, Martha, a. 3, and Henry a. 4/12.

This would place him within the age range of a possible child of John Moak. What, if any, connection existed is unknown.

From what we now know, the only child whose name is identified is Laban Wade Moak, Sr.

Laban Wade Moak, Sr., was born in South Carolina (probably Richland) on June 5, 1815, and lived until June 22, 1873. He married Sarah Rebecca Hood, born in South Carolina on January 3, 1817, and died May 27, 1857. (See also mention of Wade Moak in 1.1.4.) Their children:

1. Andrew E. Moak, born November 13, 1840, died December 22, 1892. On October 27, 1859, he married Frances Carter.
2. Moses Moak was born September 14, 1842. No other information concerning him has been located; however, he is not to be confused with the two Moses Moates (sic) names found in the Richland County Census of 1820 and 1840. Two Moses Moates were presumably father and son and could have some relationship to some branch of the family yet undisclosed.
3. Mary A. R. Moak, born December 29, 1845, and married on November 29, 1860, to Brown Ross.
4. Martha Moak, born December 25, 1847, and married on May 1, 1866, to John Schull.
5. Henry S. Moak, born January 22, 1850.
• 6. Laban Wade Moak, Jr.
7. John Elijah Moak, born January 9, 1855, and died January 10, 1855.
8. William Wesley Moak, born August 18, 1856, and died July 12, 1891.

Before leaving Laban Wade, Sr., the following quotation from Mrs. Claude H. Booker (1.1.1.6.1.2) concerning the family history:

> "We heard our grandfather L. W. Moak, Jr., tell many times of how their family along with other members of the family started out to Miss.--How they came through Rome (Georgia) and then, because of illness in their immediate family, returned to S.C." She further states that this probably took place about the time of the Civil War. Some apparently went forward and others returned to South Carolina.

.1.6 Laban Wade Moak, Jr., was born in Richland County, S.C., in 1852 and on May 26, 1874, married Sarah Elizabeth Oswaldt, who was born in Lexington County, S.C., November 5, 1853.
